Kasai Rebels Advancing In Congo Battle

Another Unit Pulls Back Without Fight, Information States

ELISABETHVILLE, the Congo (AP)—A column of secessionist Albert Kalonji's volunteers was reported advancing in Kasai Province Sunday against Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba's forces. But another column pulled back without fighting a battle, according to information reaching here.

The column that pulled back crossed from this rebellious province of Katanga Saturday and headed for Luputa. This town is 20 miles inside Kasai. It was considered a potential jump-off point for Lumumba's invasion of Katanga after he disposed of Kalonji's Kasai "army."

But advices reaching this Katanga capital said scouts found most tribes in the Luputa area favored Lumumba. There was little support for Kalonji and the Kasai "Mineral State" he proclaimed recently and allied with Katanga.

The column near Luputa appears to be much smaller than the 250 men reported. It will probably join with a second and larger column farther east.

This larger column consists of about 250 uniformed troops armed with rifles and a few Belgian automatic rifles, plus 250 porters carrying ammunition and supplies.

The men with rifles and automatic weapons are mostly former members of the Congo army who had considerable training in the handling of firearms.

Kalonji's youth movement—militant supporters of Kalonji's old political party—are believed to be harassing the Congo troops in southern Kasai. Kalonji's invasion force will probably try to join with them and other supporters in the areas which was always known for its anti-Lumumba sentiments.

A Katanga army spokesman refused to give the position of Kalonji's little volunteer army with its white advisers—mostly Belgians. But no opposition has been reported.

The announced objective of the volunteers is to win back the "Mineral State" Kalonji created.

Bakwanga, Kalonji's capital was seized by Lumumba's Congo army last week. Baluba tribal guerrillas at last report were harassing Congolese troops holed up in Bakwanga, a diamond center.

A U.N. spokesman had no information on the progress of the volunteers.

Kennedy, Democratic presidential candidate, gestures as he addresses an estimated 2,000 persons gathered at the airport in San Francisco Sunday during his 2-hour stopover before continuing on to Anchorage, Alaska. Safety Council Says Pace Quickens With Count Over '59 Toll

By The Associated Press

Traffic casualties mounted steadily Sunday as balmy weather enticed millions of Americans onto the highways, bent on the pleasures of a three-day Labor Day weekend.

At 8 p.m. EDT, traffic accidents had claimed the lives of 251 persons; boating mishaps 14; 33 had drowned, and 35 had died in miscellaneous accidents.

With the 78-hour break in workaday routine more than halfway over, deaths on the roads were averaging nearly five every hour.

In the costliest single accident reported, a head-on collision Saturday killed six persons at Lufton, Tex.

The National Safety Council noted that the pace of the holiday toll has quickened, and the traffic count ran slightly ahead of the 1959 Labor Day weekend, when 438 persons died on the highways. Also during the weekend a year ago boating accidents took 29 lives, drowning 62, and miscellaneous accidents 84. The last category includes such fatalities as fires, falls, electrocutions and airplane crashes.

The council has predicted 460 persons will die on the highways before the weekend officially ends at midnight Monday. It began Friday at 6 p.m.

The council forecast, if reached, would exceed by 130 deaths the expectable traffic toll of 330 estimated by the council for a non-holiday weekend of the same length this season. It would be only one short of the record Labor Day weekend traffic toll of 461, set during the 1951 holiday.

The record over-all accident toll for a Labor Day period was 658, also set in 1951. The record for any holiday period since World War II is 884 accidental deaths during the four-day Christmas break in 1956. That holiday claimed 706 traffic victims, also a record.

Crash Blamed On Bee Sting; Girl, 13, Hurt

Driver Slaps Insect, Loses Control And Rams Parked Auto

A 13-year-old East Liverpool girl was injured late Saturday afternoon when her father's car crashed into a parked auto on Avondale St. as he slapped at a bee which stung him on the side of the face, police reported.

Cheryl Forney, daughter of Gerald L. Forney, 46, of 414 Gardendale Ave., suffered a possible fracture of the right elbow when her father's 1957 two - door sedan hit the rear of a parked 1955 four - door sedan owned by William R. Jennings, 1101 Avondale St., officers reported. She was released after treatment at City Hospital.

The crash occurred at 5:42 about 50 feet south of Franklin St., police said. Forney said he was driving upgrade about 15 to 20 miles an hour when a bee stung him on the side of the face. He struck at the bee, losing control of his auto and plowing into the rear of the Jennings auto, police said.

There was damage to the right front of Forney's car and the entire rear of the Jennings Auto.

A 22-year-old motorist was cited on a reckless driving charge as an aftermath of another mishap Saturday at 4:30 p. m. on Dresden Ave.

Thomas Renner of No. 8 Thompson Pl. will face the charge Tuesday morning in Municipal Court as a result of a crash involving his 1952 two - door sedan and a 1958 sedan operated by Matthew Korman, 51, of Cleveland.

Korman told police he was outbound on Dresden when Renner's car backed into him. The left door and left rear fender of Korman's car were damaged. There was no damage to Renner's auto, police said.

A mishap in Welsh Alley 50 feet west of St. Clair Ave. Saturday at 11:34 a. m. damaged a ¾-ton truck operated by Robert H. McDonnell, 1727 Montana Ave., Pleasant Heights, and a 1955 sedan operated by Remma E. Lockhart, 513 Grace Ln., police said.

McDonnell told police he was getting out of his parked truck and opened the door against the Lockhart auto, which was traveling west in Welsh Alley. There was damage to the left front fender and door of the truck and the

Heat To Ease For Holiday; Fair Tonight

Warm but less humid weather was promised for Labor Day to wind up the last weekend of the summer season.

The mercury soared to a hot 89 degrees Sunday and rain held off until early evening after a pleasant day for family outings at district parks.

Today's high range will be 74 to 79 degrees with partly cloudy skies and tonight will be fair with little change in temperature.

Dam 8 at Newell said the high mark was reached at 6 p. m. after the mercury had remained at 88 for 2 hours. The overnight low yesterday morning was a mild 59. It was 81 at noon yesterday.

The brief but heavy thundershowers brought 0.28 inch of precipitation and cooler temperatures early last night. The storm lasted about 20 minutes and tumbled the mercury to 74.

Aside from family outings to Tri-State District parks and lakes, the area observance will center at Wellsville where the Junior Chamber of Commerce will give its third annual "Jaycee Day" program.

The only organized observance in the area, it will begin with a family picnic at 12:30 at Hammond Park, and games and contests and a baby show will follow.

There will be a parade at 6:30 with 21 candidates for the "Miss Jaycee of 1961" cointest in the procession.

A dance will follow at 8 in the Beacom Memorial Gym where the name of the city's "outstanding citizen" will be announced at 9:30; with crowning of the queen to follow at 10.

The observance is held to keep residents off crowded highways and patrol stations in the area said traffic was heavy at the start of the weekend but was marked by a lull late yesterday.

The district escaped without a traffic fatality and only one mishap was reported in the county. The city had a few minor mishaps.

The Lisbon State Highway Patrol said traffic in this area was about normal.

Traffic was reported as heavy in the Steubenville area by the Wintersville State Highway Patrol. It was slack Sunday morning officers said.

Traffic through East Liverpool was comparatively light both Saturday night and Sunday night, but police are expecting a rush late this afternoon and tonight when motorists start homeward after the long weekend, Capt. Robert H. Pyle said.

Echo Leader's Blast At U.S., OAS And Nationalist China

HAVANA (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro's supporters massed in major Cuban cities Sunday to shout approval of their bearded leader's "Declaration of Havana," formally establishing diplomatic relations with Red China.

Speakers at the rallies, called by the giant, left-wing Cuban Federation of Labor, echoed Castro's Friday night address blasting the United States, the Organization of American States and Nationalist China.

Meanwhile, Nationalist Chinese Ambassador Liu Yu-wan and his staff packed for an early departure. Liu said he still has not received formal notification of the Castro regime's decision to break diplomatic relations with his government.

Preparing to leave with Liu are executives of the Havana branch of the Bank of (Nationalist) China. Informed sources said the Cuban government probably will seize the bank's 10 million dollars in assets and hand them over to Communist China.

Foreign diplomats and representatives of Cuba's 30,000 Chinese residents called at the embassy Sunday to say farewell to Liu. The Chinese community, one of the largest in Latin American and strongly in favor of Nationalist China, now faces control by representatives of Peiping.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts is aiming his political arrows at President Eisenhower and technically ignoring Vice President Richard M. Nixon—in a fast-moving campaign.

Before boarding a jet plane for Detroit, Mich., for a traditional Democratic nominee's Labor Day speech in the Motor City, Kennedy whirled through a series of speaking dates here. In them he slamed at Eisenhower as the architect of a "stand still' policy he said is costing the nation it's world leadership.

His only mention of Nixon was to express the hope that his GOP presidential rival, would visit Alaska to share in what Kennedy said is "an education for all of us" in economic progress from scratch.

Early Peace Not Likely In Pennsy Strike

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Strike losses in the Pennsylvania Railroad shut down approached the $15 million mark Sunday with no indication of an early settlement in the dispute that has halted all operations of the nation's largest carrier.

Federal mediators continued separate meetings with the PRR and two unions without comment. And none of the disputants in the four-day-old strike indicated anything encouraging.

A spokesman for the Transport Workers Union said there was no reason to change the comment of TWU President Michael Quill Saturday to a union meeting in Altoona, Pa. Quill said a settlement may be months away.

The negotiators are concerned with 20 separate contract disputes. But the PRR, the TWU and the System Federation, the other union involved, have agreed there are two main issues. One is the unions' demand for specific work classifications and job assignments. The other is the unions' demand that the PRR do more of its own construction and repair work in its own shops, employing members of the two unions.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower praised American workers and warned of communism in his Labor Day statement Sunday. Union leaders did the same—but they found fault with U.S. foreign policy and domestic economy and pledged political action to solve problems abroad and at home.

The President said, "I reaffirm my faith in the traditions of America's working men and women."

"By freely asserting our rights as citizens, we have improved our standards of living, bettered our working conditions, and achieved greater security for ourselves and our families than any other society in the history of mankind," he continued.

Blueprint–Reorganization And Work

DiSalle Issues Mental Health Plan

By ART PARKS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. Michael V. DiSalle tonight laid down a 22-point blueprint through which he believes Ohio can build a mental health program to meet the problem "through reorganization—and work."

His minutely detailed report of past accomplishments and future hopes was presented in a personally written 69-page report based on nearly two years' study.

Out-of-state mental health experts who saw preview copies of what amounts to a DiSalle "white paper" on mental health referred to it in such terms as "monumental." The governor himself sized it up this way:

"The report simply calls for a lot of reorganization—and work. It is amazing what can be done in the field within available resources."

DiSalle hesitated when newsmen asked him to name his most important recommendation. Then he replied:

"Certainly one of the very important things is the recommendation for multiple programs at each of the long-term treatment institutions."

That would mean that at each of 13 institutions, the programs for the mentally ill, the severely retarded and the non-psychotic aged would be conducted in separate buildings — at least in separate wards.

Otherwise, the DiSalle report calls, primarily for:

Retention as a single unit of the Ohio Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction.

Departmentalization of the Division of Mental Hygiene by the addition of a Bureau of Geriatrics to deal with the problems of the non-psychotic aged and a section in the Bureau of Mental Deficiency to care for the train the severely mentally retarded.

Establishment of day-care centers for the severely mentally retarded children.

Expansion of training facilities in the six state universities to provide mental health personnel in the areas where trained people are scarce. ("We must increase our training program by whatever means possible. Psychiatrists are not made overnight.")

Emphasis on out-patient clinics and eventual elimination of old-

DiSalle hesitated when newsmen asked him to name his most important recommendation. Then he replied:

"Certainly one of the very important things is the recommendation for multiple programs at each of the long-term treatment institutions."

That would mean that at each of 13 institutions, the programs for the mentally ill, the severely retarded and the non-psychotic aged would be conducted in separate buildings — at least in separate wards.

Otherwise, the DiSalle report calls, primarily for:

Retention as a single unit of the Ohio Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction.

Departmentalization of the Division of Mental Hygiene by the addition of a Bureau of Geriatrics to deal with the problems of the non-psychotic aged and a section in the Bureau of Mental Deficiency to care for the train the severely mentally retarded.

Establishment of day-care centers for the severely mentally retarded children.

Expansion of training facilities in the six state universities to provide mental health personnel in the areas where trained people are scarce. ("We must increase our training program by whatever means possible. Psychiatrists are not made overnight.")

Emphasis on out-patient clinics and eventual elimination of old-

Feel Guilty On Labor Day?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Do you feel guilty on Labor Day?

Do pangs of conscience threaten to mar your holiday pleasure?

Fortunately, most of us are able to take a day off from work without feeling the world will go to pot.

But there are those who are made uncomfortable by a holiday. They can't take a 24-hour free pass from the old salt mine as just one of life's lovely little bonuses. They fear that in taking a day off they are letting down their job, their boss and their corporation. And they worry about it.

(Editor's Note: Boyle certainly does meet some strange people. Nobody like that lives in our block.)

They need to be told that it does a man good now and then to rest his oars. Here are a few literary tranquilizers to console anyone who believes a day off is either un-American or a waste of time:

"All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy."—old English proverb.

"The more characteristic American hero in the earlier day, and the more beloved type at all times, was not the hustler but the whittler."—Mark Sullivan.

"A faculty for idleness implies a catholic appetite and a strong sense of personal identity."—Robert Louis Stevenson.

"It is impossible to enjoy idling thoroughly unless one has plenty of work to do."—Jerome K. Jerome.

"Be idle, very idle! The habits of your mind are such that you will necessarily do much; but be as idle as you can."—S. T. Coleridge.

"As peace is the end of war, so to be idle is the ultimate purpose of the busy."—Samuel Johnson.

"Every man is, or hopes to be, an idler."—Ditto.

"We would all be idle if we could."—Ditto again.

"I loaf and invite my soul. . . ." —Walt Whitman.

"I am happiest when I am idle. I could live for months without performing any kind of labor, and at the expiration of that time I should feel fresh and vigorous enough to go right on in the same way for numerous more months." —Artemus Ward.

"Who first invented work, and bound the free and holiday rejoicing spirit down to the ever-haunting importunity of business? Sabbathless Satan!" — Charles Lamb.

"Work like a man, but don't be worked to death."—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

"Labor is the curse of the world, and nobody can meddle with it without becoming proportionately brutified." — Nathaniel Hawthorne.

"Ah, why should life all labor be?"—Tennyson.

"Idleness is an appendix to nobility."—Robert Burton.

"Work only tires a woman, but it ruins a man."—African proverb.

"Work is the curse of the drinking classes."—Oscar Wilde.

Lisbon Seeks Blood Donors

LISBON —At least 175 prospective donors are needed for the Red Cross Bloodmobile's semi-annual visit to Lisbon Monday, Sept. 12, if the community is to meet its quota of 125 pints as it did previously.

The unit will be at the American Legion Home from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. The blood will go into banks at the Salem City Hospital and Salem Central Clinic and is available to area patients. The only charge is for administering.

Mrs. Edwin L. Kauffman, chairman, said prospective donors should make appointments by calling HA. 4-5978. Walk-ins will be accepted as usual, but the appointment system saves time, Mrs. Kauffman emphasized.

Recruitment committee members are Charles Faust, Tom Kastner, Fr. William Hohman, Bernard Smith, Lee Jones, Isabel Taylor, Tillie Mugridge, Betty Hendricks, Sally Hurd, Wanda Shaw, Marilyn Bergert and Dave Reisinger of Lisbon and Doris Eells of Elkton.

The Legion auxiliary will furnish volunteer workers and operate the canteen where donors will receive refreshments.

A color-sound move, "RX for Life," is available for showing at club meetings. The 15-mm. film runs 14½ minutes and tells the story of the blood banks, Mrs. Kauffman said.

Police Jail 11 For Long Wait Until Tuesday

The three-day holiday weekend looks longer still from behind bars, which is the plight of some of the 11 persons arrested by East Liverpool police and unable to make bond to regain their freedom pending the next session of Municipal Court Tuesday morning.

The list includes two traffic violators cited by the State Highway Patrol. They are:

Ernest Suttle of Bradley, W. Va., arrested at 11:15 a. m. Sunday for ignoring a stop sign at the intersection of Routes 7 and 30. He posted a $31 bond for appearance Tuesday at 9 a. m.

Perlie Young, 26, of Youngstown, cited Sunday on Route 30 for passing over a yellow line. No appearance date was set.

Local police accounted for seven arrests, including four men picked up Friday on vagrancy charges after they were found in an improvised shack off Walnut St. at the rear of the Winland Lumber Co. building.

Two men were cited on intoxication charges. A local man arrested Saturday later was released on a $31 bond to appear Tuesday. A Pittsburgher cited Sunday on a similar charge still was in jail last night.

Boy, 16, Accidentally Shoots, Kills Himself

CINCINNATI (AP)—A 16-year-old boy shot and killed himself in an apparent accident at home Sunday after returning from church, the county coroner's office reported.

The youth was identified as Fred Hillman Jr. of nearby Bridgetown.

Investigators said the boy's mother heard a noise in his room and discovered the boy wounded fatally in the chest.

There was no immediate ruling in the death.

New York Musicians Reject 'Final' Offer

NEW YORK (AP) — Local 802, American Federation of Musicians, Sunday rejected a "final" offer by the League of New York Theater Owners, but said its musicians would stay in theater pits through next Saturday while working without a contract.

The league offer was rejected at an early morning meeting at union offices.

8 Are Saved When Fishing Vessel Sinks

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —Eight persons whose fishing vessel sank in the Gulf of Mexico were rescued Sunday.

Seven members of two Atlanta families were picked up in the Gulf Sunday afternoon nearly 24 hours after their 42-foot cabin cruiser, the Georgia Queen, sank late Saturday.

The seven were identified only as members of the Badders and Boggs families.

The boat captain, Tommy Vickers, was rescued early Sunday morning, by a fishing vessel, the BB, out of Carrabelle, Fla. He remained aboard the BB to assist in the search for his passengers.

The seven others were found shortly after 4 p.m. by the fishing vessel, the Sandy, which took them to Carrabelle.

Vickers was quoted as saying the Georgia Queen filled up and sank very rapidly near St. Marks, a town about 20 miles south of Tallahassee. The bow remained out of the water and Coast Guardmen found the boat Sunday morning.

Vickers said the last he saw of his seven passengers was about dark when they were holding onto a life raft.

The Coast Guard said the two families took the boat out early Saturday from Crawfordsville, Fla., about 140 miles north of St. Petersburg.

Police Jail 11 For Long Wait Until Tuesday

The three-day holiday weekend looks longer still from behind bars, which is the plight of some of the 11 persons arrested by East Liverpool police and unable to make bond to regain their freedom pending the next session of Municipal Court Tuesday morning.

The list includes two traffic violators cited by the State Highway Patrol. They are:

Ernest Suttle of Bradley, W. Va., arrested at 11:15 a. m. Sunday for ignoring a stop sign at the intersection of Routes 7 and 30. He posted a $31 bond for appearance Tuesday at 9 a. m.

Perlie Young, 26, of Youngstown, cited Sunday on Route 30 for passing over a yellow line. No appearance date was set.

Local police accounted for seven arrests, including four men picked up Friday on vagrancy charges after they were found in an improvised shack off Walnut St. at the rear of the Winland Lumber Co. building.

Two men were cited on intoxication charges. A local man arrested Saturday later was released on a $31 bond to appear Tuesday. A Pittsburgher cited Sunday on a similar charge still was in jail last night.

Boy, 16, Accidentally Shoots, Kills Himself

CINCINNATI (AP)—A 16-year-old boy shot and killed himself in an apparent accident at home Sunday after returning from church, the county coroner's office reported.

The youth was identified as Fred Hillman Jr. of nearby Bridgetown.

Investigators said the boy's mother heard a noise in his room and discovered the boy wounded fatally in the chest.

There was no immediate ruling in the death.

Labor Day Needs To Be Redefined

On Labor Day 1960, the concepts of old-timers about this most typical of American holidays are out of touch with the times.

An old-timer remembers when Labor Day was a Monday off—a respite from unremitting toil in the pursuit of a living. In 1960, there is nothing unusual about a day off. Most industrial employes work 5-day weeks; some work less.

The concept of unremitting toil has faded. Even the concept of pursuing a living has faded. The pursuit of happiness has taken its place.

LABOR, ITSELF, is not the concept that was common a generation ago, when labor always was depicted as a laborer with rolled-up sleeves. Today's working man is just as likely to wear a sports shirt with the sleeves already cu toff. He may push buttons instead of a wheelbarrow. He may have had advanced schooling. He is more likely to be skilled than unskilled, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The bureau's statistics suggest, moreover, that this is only the beginning of the transformation of the nature of wage-earning in the United States. In the near future, there will be no jobs for a man with nothing to sell to his employer but his hands and his muscles. Everyone who works will work within a skill.

INDUSTRY will go through the same evolution that has changed the nature of agriculture from mass drudgery to selective effort. Fewer men and women—as many as 40 per cent women, incidentally—will produce ever-greater quantities of goods, with the assistance of better machinery and more efficient methods.

People no longer needed in mills, factories, shops and mines will find their opportunities to pursue a living and happiness in the service trades. Many will start their own business and be answerable only to themselves for working conditions.

The transformation of wage-earning in the United States will eliminate all the conditions that characterized the Industrial Revolution after its beginning in Britain in the latter half of the 18th. century.

The proletariat whose hopeless lot obcessed the thinking of Karl Marx will disappear; in the United States there never has been enough of the proletariat to give Marxists a toehold.

The "idle rich" will be neither as idle nor as rich as they would need to be to incur revolutionary resentment.

The bourgeoisie, favorite target of the Marxists, will have lost their identifying traits. They will not be money-grubbing shopkeepers so much as they will be people of moderate means and views whose stability will be indispensable as the backbone of government and progress. Even the Soviet Union will rely on its middle class.

INTELLECTUALISM will not be the prerogative of any class or group; it never has been in the United States. Intellectuals will in spring from all sections of the population. Culture will belong in the popular domain.

As these things, already visible, become more important in their bearing on the good soceity that was developed here as the New World's answer to the abuses of working people in the Old World, there will be a time when no one will remember the old-fashioned concept of Labor Day in America.

It is very close to being that way in 1960.

Will We Say Hello On Tuesday?

It has been our idea for a long time that scare-stories about holiday traffic hazards miss the point.

The only motorists they scare are the ones who never do foolish things anyway. The daredevils and chowderheads who cause accidents and give holiday traffic a black eye pay no attention to scare-stories. If they were capable of seeing the error of their ways, they would have seen the error long before the latest spatter of scare-stories about holiday traffic.

Another idea we've had is that the stories accent the wrong thing. They make it appear that auto traffic is the greatest danger because it accounts for the majority of deaths. On Independence Day weekend this year, auto traffic killed 432 in a total of 696. That was more than 60 per cent.

But bear in mind that boating alone accounted for 34 deaths and plain, ordinary drowning accounted for another 121 deaths. Together, these water dangers killed more than a third as many as were killed in auto traffic, although the people who went boating and swimming would be only a tiny fraction of the vast total that went motoring.

While resolving not to make summer's last fling your last fling, too, remember that 22 per cent of all the people killed during the last holiday weekehd would have been alive if they had stayed clear of deep water. It is the most dangerous thing that people do in the pursuit of pleasure.

Make sure your friends are speaking to you on Tuesday, not viewing the remains. Be especially careful about swimming and boating. Be careful about auto traffic, too, and everything else that might put you among the permanent post-holiday absentees.

Everybody Lives And Learns

In recent years, when Michael J. Quill has tried to tie up New York City's rail and wheel transportation, he hasn't had much luck.

The same thing that has been causing transportation companies and commissions to mourn declining revenues has been hurting Quill and the Transport Workers Union.

It will hurt him and his union in the shutdown they have caused on the sprawling Pennsylvania Railroad system. To be sure, the shutdown also will hurt the railroad's customers and the railroad, itself, despite the insurance it carries against losses caused by union tactics. But the great change that has come over public transportation is the development of private transportation for passengers and commercial truck transportation for industry and commerce. It hurts the transportation union's prospects of maintaining paralyzing strikes.

The Pennsy tieup, larger and more widespread than anything Quill has tried before, will be no different in kind from his tieups of New York City transportation. People will be inconvenienced. But they will not be paralyzed in their goings and comings.

Today, there is an alternative to trains that run on tracks and even to buses and trucks that run on highways. It is fearful to contemplate what might happen if a James R. Hoffa stopped all heavy truck transportation, or if a Michael J. Quill took over enough rail unions to tie up all train movements.

But no one has the United States by the throat any more. There always is some way to avert the paralysis that is the ultimate threat of every large-scale work stoppage. Even the Steelworkers learned last summer that the longest strike they ever maintained could not cripple the country, although it left a savage dent in the steel industry and in the future earning power of its employes.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Labor Day, created to honor the workingman by providing a day when nobody worked, is a day of less relaxation than any day in the year.

"Whaddaya mean, a day of no labor!" cry millions toiling, struggling and sweating in traffic jams, highway chaos and up to their ears in problem of getting between two given points while still in their right minds.

No task on any working day is tougher than Labor Day or weekend battle with detours, red lights, police checks, wrong road map and back seat advice.

Put a man through the same ordeal on his regular job and he will stage a sitdown, walkout or strike, with a loud blast at employer.

In the shop, store or office he can "goldbrick" a little and ask "What's the hurry?" but not on a Labor Day journey.

On the job he can take a coffee break at leisure but on a holiday dedicated to his relaxation and rest, everything depends on traffic, his sto-watch and the congestion at hogdog stands.

At his work he is not too submissive to orders but he takes loud directions from motorcycle cops, squad cars, traffic towers, and the ever lovin' family.

On the job he begins day at 8 and quits at 4, but on Labor Day he is up with the lark and to bed with the owl.

He's lucky if he gets through the day without a missing fender, police ticket or two-car, not to mention ptomaine poisoning.

Labor Day, a day of rest, my eye! It's the endurance test of the year.

NANTUCKET AND CAPE COD saw revival of croquet, the game of the '90s. Tournaments were even played under lights. Boy, my mallet and wickets, please!

Discharged GI was arrested in New York for putting sugar in gas tank of a first sergeant in Alaska. Maybe he was told the sergeant's car had gone sour.

George Alpert, New Haven railroad prexy, says passenger service is disintegrating so fast it may have to be ended unless he can get 76 million dollars with ICC aid. Mr. Alpert is a lawyer by profession. Maybe the road should change attorneys. Remember away back when railroads were run by railroad men?

Alex B. Adams, a New Haven Railroad commuter, mailed a train door handle to Sen. Prescott, saying that it is a daily occurence from things to come apart on the trains. What comes apart, too, is the old-time spirit of service and co-operation at stations. At one terminal of this road we asked if we could get a porter and got the answer, "There's one kicking around somewhere." Phone calls about train departures go long unanswered by depleted staffs. Ticket window men give wrong answers. A person merely about to get a train feels as if he had already had a ride on the cow-catcher.

Odd Facts

Platinum, which is the third heaviest element, is several times more valuable than gold. It is an excellent conductor of electricity and is impervious to rust and attacks acids, which makes it extremely valuable in laboratories for use as crucibles and other vessels.

The first official American flag, the Continental or Grand Union flag, was displayed on Prospect Hill Jan. 1, 1776, in the American lines beseiging Boston during the Revolution. It had 13 altrenating red and white strips, with the British Union Jack in the upper lefthand corner.

Don't Make Him Share Billing

Americanism, An Objective For Labor

By John N. Adams

His name is lost in the faded pages of time, yet it is to this long-forgotten man that American working men and women owe much for the unique place they hold in the United States and the world.

On Sept. 4, 1882, after years of agitation for observance of a labor's day, Peter Maguire led a band of 20,000 marchers through the streets of New York City in what was to become the first annual observance of Labor Day.

It was the spark that struck fire. Soon other labor leaders took up the cause and slowly, state after state declared the first Monday in September a legal labor holiday until Congress finally acted to make it a national holiday.

Seventy-eight years ago, when Maguire, then secretary of the tiny Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, decided that the four months from July 4 to Thanksgiving was too long a period without a holiday, common laborers were getting 12 cents an hour and the highest skilled craftsman, the blacksmith, was getting 30 cents an hour.

THE WORK WEEK was 60 hours or more and when a worker was injured or sick he was forced to rely on helpful neighbors and charity for food and medical care. Today the average industrial worker takes home an average of $90 for a 40-hour week. The top of the hourly wage earners — comparable to the highest skilled horseshoer of Maguire's time — has an average take-home pay of $142.78 or more for a 38.8-hour work week.

Today the worker is protected by Social Security and workmen's compensation, as well as other health and welfare programs. Labor unions have treasuries running into the hundreds of millions of dollars.

While backing up their leaders, today's strikers usually stay out of trouble but in Maguire's time strikes often were accompanied by violence.

If he were alive today, Maguire would be amazed at the gains made by the working man since his day, but he probably would be stunned by the way the anniversary of his brain child is celebrated.

He wouldn't recognize his creation as the holiday of dedication to "The noble workmen of the nation."

LABOR DAY this year, as in recent years, means many things to many people.

To school children it is probably the last day of "freedom" before the start of another school year. To their elders it may mean a day for picnicking or an automobile trip.

At amusement parks and outdoor recreation areas, it is the last big day of the season, the climax of the year's activities.

Traditionally it marks the start of the fall election campaigns and to some leaders of organized labor politics take priority over homage to the working classes.

While Maguire was agitating for a labor holiday, Samuel Gompers was rolling cigars and laying the groundwork for a craft union, the American Federation of Labor, which he headed and developed into a dominant labor organization.

It was Gompers' simple philosophy that trade unions are set up so that workers will get a fair share of the wealth they produce. Today, leaders are pushing labor far from that simple purpose.

Their approach is putting unionism deep in the public and political life of the country.

Where Gompers foresaw the pitfalls and kept the AFL far removed from entangling alliances with any political party, today the AFL-CIO gathers the union chiefs in an executive session to discuss candidates and issues.

For this year's presidential campaign, the course was plotted for the 14-million - member organization, last weekend at Washington.

While giving lip service to Gompers' credo: "Reward labor's friends and punish labor's enemies," in practice, today's labor leaders, almost without exception, line up on the side of the Democratic party candidates.

Yet with all this political activity and the success of labor-backed candidates at the polls it hasn't insured success for labor's demands in the legislative halls. This is confusing to labor leaders but it bears out the soundness of Gompers' philosophy.

OTHER WORRIES of the labor leaders are the lag in the growth of union membership, the ever-increasing use of automation and the challenge of foreign competition.

Some progress has been made in providing for workers displaced by automation. Funds, to which the union and employer contribute, have been set up to relocate displaced workers, but the effects of automation are still tiny compared to what is to come.

Foreign goods, manufactured with lower labor costs, are cutting sharply into our domestic markets as well as our export trade. A solution must be found to meet this challenge before we price ourselves out of competition.

While organized labor has learned a great deal about the vagaries of politics in the last decade, it still has much more to learn. Specifically it might see the wisdom of electing men who are friends of the United States, not labor alone.

Other areas in which organized labor has been criticized include;

1. The fight against union reform legislation at a time when the public and Congress were deeply aroused over corruption and racketeering in some unions.

2. The strike of irresponsible unionists which tied up work on the nation's military installations while their leaders were blaming the national administration for lagging behind the Russians in the space and missile races.

Nor was a transit strike, such as the recent one in Boston, conducive to winning sympathizers for labor.

THE NATIONAL ECONOMY still has not regained its stride after the last long and costly steel strike.

Organized labor placed the entire blame for the stalemate on management's doorstep while adamantly refusing to yield on its demands.

The day when unions can set up management as the big bad bogey man of the labor world is past.

These are the harsh realities of politics and public relations. These are lessons which organized labor can learn only by growing up and squarely facing the unsavory facts.

This is why all labor — the union and the non-union workers in all the 50 states of the Union—must redouble its efforts to preserve the American way of life. That is and should be the first and only goal on this and all future Labor Days.

Letters To The Editor

I have met with a problem; a problem I did not know existed until a few weeks ago.

The problem does not concern me alone, but all the residents of this city. I'm talking of the incredible almost unbelievable confines of the East Liverpool city dog pound. I went down there a few weeks ago to get a dog for my children and what I saw was a pity.

The cages are one on top of the other and about 2-by-2-feet square for large and small dogs alike. There is no water in the immediate building, but it has to be carried there. The dog warden, I'm told, does what he can for these pitiful animals to make them comfortable, but there's limit to what can be done with such facilities. I've also heard there are such people who would have these animals killed. Don't they have a right to live? I couldn't say on paper what I think of such people.

When you consider that we are to blame for this predicament, I think it's up to us to right it. We let our dogs roam free and this brings on the breeding that is instinctive in these animals. Thus we have over-breeding and animals that are hungry and homeless. Then we call the dog warden, who then must do his job. I wish a lot more people would do a lot more thinking and better this life for these poor creatures who are called man's best friend.

Since Nero's Day

Ice cream making has come a long way since Nero tossed his iceman to the lions.

It is only in recent times that the mechanics of freezing ice cream has progressed from hand crank to electricity and electronics. But the treat itself was no novelty during Nero's reign, A.D. 54-68.

Among the Emperor's violent tastes was a quite normal one for frozen desserts. In summer, slaves were kept busy running snow from the nearest white - capped mountains to Rome. Once, when a shipment of snow arrived in a state of slush, Nero peevishly executed the general in charge.

George Washington liked ice cream, too. In the summer of 1790, Washington bought more than $200 worth from a shop in New York, the the federal capital. There were two pewter "ice cream pots" at Mount Vernon.

The pots, known only by mention in a Mount Vernon inventory, probably were similar to those used in the White House during the Madison administration, 1809-17. In those days a container of whipped-cream mix was shaken in a wooden bucket of ice and salt until frozen.

What's Molotov's Secret?

By Bernard Kaplan

West Thinks He May Have Dope On Mr. K.

PARIS

Western authorities would give a great deal to know what Vyacheslav Molotov has on Nikita Khruschev, his onetime comrade-in-arms.

Official informants in Paris take it for granted that the old Stalin lieutenant and ex-foreign minister was shifted from his post as Soviet envoy to Outer Mongolia because he was encouraging Chinese aspirations in that remote but increasingly sensitive region.

Diplomats with wide experience in Soviet affairs find this less intriguing or surprising than the fact that Khrushchev should have once again found another job for his aging foe who now has been at least twice guilty of conspiring agains thim.

Molotov's new appointment as Soviet representative to the International Atomic Energy Agency in Vienna is not regarded as significant in itself.

The Russians do not look upon such international bodies as of much importance and the post is probably rated a harmless sinecure for the 70-year-old former politburo figure.

THE KEY POINT is, however, that of all the major rivals and opponents whom Khrushchev has toppled on his march to single leadership, Molotov alone has been compensated with jobs of even titular importance. Molotov alone has been assigned to posts abroad.

Western officials are increasingly convinced that the marked difference in treatment accorded him compared to Malenkov, Kaganovitch, Bulganin and other top "anti-party" men cannot be accidental.

Though Molotov is known to have been in some respects a more bitter and uncompromising foe of Khrushchev than any of the rest, he was treated more gently than the other fallen titans.

This is unlikely to be the result of his past or present popularity among the Soviet people, western experts think.

Nor can it be readily ascribed to his potential strength as a rallying point for the neo-Stalinists whom Khrushchev evidently has not succeeded in rendering wholly powerless.

Molotov is the best-known of the deposed leaders to most foreigners. But never, either before or after Stalin's day, was he the most consequential.

Both Malenkov and Kaganovitch for many years took precedence over him in the Soviet hierarchy.

If it is Russian public opinion which worries Khrushchev, Malenkov was far more popular than the grim old foreign minister.

YET MALENKOV and Kaganovitch, whose protege Khrushchev once was, were relegated to the most obscure and humiliating posts while Molotov—his hatred of the present Soviet leader unabated—goes from embassy to embassy enjoying the rank and privileges of an ambassador.

Western authorities reason that the difference is a personal one. Molotov, his unrivaled length of service at the highest levels of Soviet and Communist party administration, might quite easily be in possession of information others do not have.

All during Khrushchev's rigorous 30-year climb to power, Molotov had ready access to the most secret dossiers.

In other words, experienced informants regard it as a highly reasonable guess that he "has something" on the Soviet Premier; something which is damaging enough to keep Molotov from being utterly disgraced despite his unceasing opposition to Khrushchev's policies and something which makes the latter prefer to keep him out of Russia, perhaps as long as he lives.

Experts agree that Khrushchev's past is a murky one. There are unfilled gaps of which little or nothing is known. It could be that Molotov is capable of filling in at least one of them.

First Road In Offing

By Henry Bradsher

It's a 5½-day mule ride from the brand new Bhutanese town of Phunchholing on the edge of the Indian plains to Paro, the main center of mountainous western Bhutan.

But by next May, if all goes well, it will be an eight-hour jeep ride.

And Bhutan, after centuries of voluntary isolation in the eastern Himalayas, will never be the same once its first road is completed.

A lot of landslides, leech bites and sweat lie on the 120 miles between Phunchholing and Paro before the road is finished. But the Bhutanese are determined that it will be built. India is helping.

THE DECISION to build the road came as an abrupt about-face from Bhutan's past policy of keeping the world out and refusing to have anything better than mule trails.

In the late 18th and 19th centuries the British in India wanted to trade with Tibet through Paro. The Bhutanese, content to earn what little profit there was on sporadic through trade, wanted none of a British road.

Since 1947 independent India has urged Bhutan to permit roads. In February, 1959, Bhutan put off another such suggestion. The next month the Chinese Communists crushed the Tibetan uprising and the Bhutanese had second thoughts.

The easiest route from Paro to India had been westward across the Chumbi Valley of southern Tibet to roads in Sikkim, an Indian protectorate.

The Chinese began interfering with Bhutanese government messengers. Rather than accept worthless Chinese paper money and expose her people to Communist indoctronation, Bhutan halted her Tibetan trade.

BETTER communications with India became a necessity. With the Druk Gyalpo (King) Jigme Dorji Wangchuk personally behind it, the Tsongdu or National Assembly decided last October to accept Indian offers to help build a road.

The predominately farm population hopes a road will permit economic transportation of its surplus grain to Indian markets. The few imports needed by Bhutan's primitive and almost self-sufficient economy, such as matches and soap, will cost less.

The people seem unconcerned about possible social effects of cheap transportation. For instance, imported machine - made cloth might disrupt the system of home weaving that provides all Bhutan's clothes and vital income for many farm wives.

What does concern the people is providing labor for the road. Bhutan is a prosperous country in which almost everyone owns his land. There is no pool of surplus labor. The Bhutanese do not want to import labor into their closed society.

OVERTONES of the ancient system of forced labor for the government exist in the arrangements for road workers. Each family or unit of six persons is ordered to provide one worker for 23 days on the road. If no replacement shows up, he keeps working another 23 days.

"How can they refuse to work?" a Bhutanese government official asked. "They are working for their own government."

The road workers live in temporary bamboo huts they build themselves. The government pays them two rupees (42 cents) a day while actually on the job and sells them food at subsidized rates.

The road is engineered and supervised by experts from India, which made a grant of 150,000,000 rupees (31,500,000) to Bhutan for it. The Principal Engineering Officer, Om Prakash Mathur, who has built other tough Himalayan roads, has about 40 Indians under him.

Work began Jan. 13 with about 3,000 laborers. They had built 13½ miles of road by the end of May when they went home to reap their winter wheat and plant summer rice. Work will resume in October.

The road will be only 12 feet wide and gravelled at first. Widening to 18 feet and hard-surfacing will come sometime later. Two major bridges probably will be built of logs until steel ones can be erected.

The main objective now is to open up the country in a hurry.

Bhutan will not be wide open, however. The king says the traditional ban on all foreigners will be relaxed only slightly even though the decline of mule travel might lure more people to this beautiful mountain land.

Battle Of Bogs

Muskegs, the treacherous peat bogs of North America, may some day prove a bonanza instead of a bane.

Though sphagnum moss has long delighted gardeners, muskegs are detested as black, fly-breeding oozes of water and decomposing vegetation that seem to spread like cancers across great areas of Canada and the northern United States.

Muskegs are the despair of road builders. The bogs swallow thousands of tons of gravel, then yawn for more. Speaking from bitter experience, an engineer declared that "the problems of road building through muskeg are numerous, the worries are endless, and the costs are dumfounding."

An aluminum company spent $2,000,000 blasting a channel through solid rock rather than fight a muskeg.

Even the Soviet Union will rely on its middle class.

INTELLECTUALISM will not be the prerogative of any class or group; it never has been in the United States. Intellectuals will in spring from all sections of the population. Culture will belong in the popular domain.

As these things, already visible, become more important in their bearing on the good soceity that was developed here as the New World's answer to the abuses of working people in the Old World, there will be a time when no one will remember the old-fashioned concept of Labor Day in America.

It is very close to being that way in 1960.

Will We Say Hello On Tuesday?

It has been our idea for a long time that scare-stories about holiday traffic hazards miss the point.

The only motorists they scare are the ones who never do foolish things anyway. The daredevils and chowderheads who cause accidents and give holiday traffic a black eye pay no attention to scare-stories. If they were capable of seeing the error of their ways, they would have seen the error long before the latest spatter of scare-stories about holiday traffic.

Another idea we've had is that the stories accent the wrong thing. They make it appear that auto traffic is the greatest danger because it accounts for the majority of deaths. On Independence Day weekend this year, auto traffic killed 432 in a total of 686. That was more than 60 per cent.

But bear in mind that boating alone accounted for 34 deaths and plain, ordinary drowning accounted for another 121 deaths. Together, these water dangers killed more than a third as many as were killed in auto traffic, although the people who went boating and swimming would be only a tiny fraction of the vast total that went motoring.

While resolving not to make summer's last fling your last fling, too, remember that 22 per cent of all the people killed during the last holiday weekehd would have been alive if they had stayed clear of deep water. It is the most dangerous thing that people do in the pursuit of pleasure.

Make sure your friends are speaking to you on Tuesday, not viewing the remains. Be especially careful about swimming and boating. Be careful about auto traffic, too, and everything else that might put you among the permanent post-holiday absentees.

Everybody Lives And Learns

In recent years, when Michael J. Quill has tried to tie up New York City's rail and wheel transportation, he hasn't had much luck.

The same thing that has been causing transportation companies and commissions to mourn declining revenues has been hurting Quill and the Transport Workers Union.

It will hurt him and his union in the shutdown they have caused on the sprawling Pennsylvania Railroad system. To be sure, the shutdown also will hurt the railroad's customers and the railroad, itself, despite the insurance it carries against losses caused by union tactics. But the great change that has come over public transportation is the development of private transportation for passengers and commercial truck transportation for industry and commerce. It hurts the transportation union's prospects of maintaining paralyzing strikes.

The Pennsy tieup, larger and more widespread than anything Quill has tried before, will be no different in kind from his tieups of New York City transportation. People will be inconvenienced. But they will not be paralyzed in their goings and comings.

Today, there is an alternative to trains that run on tracks and even to buses and trucks that run on highways. It is fearful to contemplate what might happen if a James R. Hoffa stopped all heavy truck transportation, or if a Michael J. Quill took over enough rail unions to tie up all train movements.

But no one has the United States by the throat any more. There always is some way to avert the paralysis that is the ultimate threat of every large-scale work stoppage. Even the Steelworkers learned last summer that the longest strike they ever maintained could not cripple the country, although it left a savage dent in the steel industry and in the future earning power of its employes.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Labor Day, created to honor the workingman by providing a day when nobody worked, is a day of less relaxation than any day in the year.

"Whaddaya mean, a day of no labor!" cry millions toiling, struggling and sweating in traffic jams, highway chaos and up to their ears in problem of getting between two given points while still in their right minds.

No task on any working day is tougher than Labor Day or weekend battle with detours, red lights, police checks, wrong road map and back seat advice.

Put a man through the same ordeal on his regular job and he will stage a sitdown, walkout or strike, with a loud blast at employer.

In the shop, store or office he can "goldbrick" a little and ask "What's the hurry?" but not on a Labor Day journey.

On the job he can take a coffee break at leisure but on a holiday dedicated to his relaxation and rest, everything depends on traffic, his sto-watch and the congestion at hogdog stands.

At his work he is not too submissive to orders but he takes loud directions from motorcycle cops, squad cars, traffic towers, and the ever lovin' family.

On the job he begins day at 8 and quits at 4, but on Labor Day he is up with the lark and to bed with the owl.

He's lucky if he gets through the day without a missing fender, police ticket or two-car, not to mention ptomaine poisoning.

Labor Day, a day of rest, my eye! It's the endurance test of the year.

NANTUCKET AND CAPE COD saw revival of croquet, the game of the '90s. Tournaments were even played under lights. Boy, my mallet and wickets, please!

Discharged GI was arrested in New York for putting sugar in gas tank of a first sergeant in Alaska. Maybe he was told the sergeant's car had gone sour.

George Alpert, New Haven railroad prexy, says passenger service is disintegrating so fast it may have to be ended unless he can get 76 million dollars with ICC aid. Mr. Alpert is a lawyer by profession. Maybe the road should change attorneys. Remember away back when railroads were run by railroad men?

Alex B. Adams, a New Haven Railroad commuter, mailed a train door handle to Sen. Prescott, saying that it is a daily occurence from things to come apart on the trains. What comes apart, too, is the old-time spirit of service and co-operation at stations. At one terminal of this road we asked if we could get a porter and got the answer, "There's one kicking around somewhere." Phone calls about train departures go long unanswered by depleted staffs. Ticket window men give wrong answers. A person merely about to get a train feels as if he had already had a ride on the cow-catcher.

Odd Facts

Platinum, which is the third heaviest element, is several times more valuable than gold. It is an excellent conductor of electricity and is impervious to rust and attacks acids, which makes it extremely valuable in laboratories for use as crucibles and other vessels.

The first official American flag, the Continental or Grand Union flag, was displayed on Prospect Hill Jan. 1, 1776, in the American lines beseiging Boston during the Revolution. It had 13 altrenating red and white strips, with the British Union Jack in the upper leithand corner.

Don't Make Him Share Billing

Americanism, An Objective For Labor

By John N. Adams

His name is lost in the faded pages of time, yet it is to this long-forgotten man that American working men and women owe much for the unique place they hold in the United States and the world.

On Sept. 4, 1882, after years of agitation for observance of a labor's day, Peter Maguire led a band of 20,000 marchers through the streets of New York City in what was to become the first annual observance of Labor Day.

It was the spark that struck fire. Soon other labor leaders took up the cause and slowly, state after state declared the first Monday in September a legal labor holiday until Congress finally acted to make it a national holiday.

Seventy-eight years ago, when Maguire, then secretary of the tiny Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, decided that the four months from July 4 to Thanksgiving was too long a period without a holiday, common laborers were getting 12 cents an hour and the highest skilled craftsman, the blacksmith, was getting 30 cents an hour.

THE WORK WEEK was 60 hours or more and when a worker was injured or sick he was forced to rely on helpful neighbors and charity for food and medical care. Today the average industrial worker takes home an average of $90 for a 40-hour week. The top of the hourly wage earners — comparable to the highest skilled horseshoer of Maguire's time — has an average take-home pay of $142.78 or more for a 38.8-hour work week.

Today the worker is protected by Social Security and workmen's compensation, as well as other health and welfare programs. Labor unions have treasuries running into the hundreds of millions of dollars.

While backing up their leaders, today's strikers usually stay out of trouble but in Maguire's time strikes often were accompanied by violence.

If he were alive today, Maguire would be amazed at the gains made by the working man since his day, but he probably would be stunned by the way the anniversary of his brain child is celebrated.

He wouldn't recognize his creation as the holiday of dedication to "The noble workmen of the nation."

LABOR DAY this year, as in recent years, means many things to many people.

To school children it is probably the last day of "freedom" before the start of another school year. To their elders it may mean a day for picnicking or an automobile trip.

At amusement parks and outdoor recreation areas, it is the last big day of the season, the climax of the year's activities.

Traditionally it marks the start of the fall election campaigns and to some leaders of organized labor politics take priority over homage to the working classes.

While Maguire was agitating for a labor holiday, Samuel Gompers was rolling cigars and laying the groundwork for a craft union, the American Federation of Labor, which he headed and developed into a dominant labor organization.

It was Gompers' simple philosophy that trade unions are set up so that workers will get a fair share of the wealth they produce. Today, leaders are pushing labor far from that simple purpose.

Their approach is putting unionism deep in the public and political life of the country.

Where Gompers foresaw the pitfalls and kept the AFL far removed from entangling alliances with any political party, today the AFL-CIO gathers the union chiefs in an executive session to discuss candidates and issues.

For this year's presidential campaign, the course was plotted for the 14-million - member organization, last weekend at Washington.

While giving lip service to Gompers' credo: "Reward labor's friends and punish labor's enemies," in practice, today's labor leaders, almost without exception, line up on the side of the Democratic party candidates.

Yet with all this political activity and the success of labor-backed candidates at the polls it hasn't insured success for labor's demands in the legislative halls. This is confusing to labor leaders but it bears out the soundness of Gompers' philosophy.

OTHER WORRIES of the labor leaders are the lag in the growth of union membership, the ever-increasing use of automation and the challenge of foreign competition.

Some progress has been made in providing for workers displaced by automation. Funds, to which the union and employer contribute, have been set up to relocate displaced workers, but the effects of automation are still tiny compared to what is to come.

Foreign goods, manufactured with lower labor costs, are cutting sharply into our domestic markets as well as our export trade. A solution must be found to meet this challenge before we price ourselves out of competition.

While organized labor has learned a great deal about the vagaries of politics in the last decade, it still has much more to learn. Specifically it might see the wisdom of electing men who are friends of the United States, not labor alone.

Other areas in which organized labor has been criticized include;

1. The fight against union reform legislation at a time when the public and Congress were deeply aroused over corruption and racketeering in some unions.

2. The strike of irresponsible unionists which tied up work on the nation's military installations while their leaders were blaming the national administration for lagging behind the Russians in the space and missile races.

Nor was a transit strike, such as the recent one in Boston, conducive to winning sympathizers for labor.

THE NATIONAL ECONOMY still has not regained its stride after the last long and costly steel strike.

Organized labor placed the entire blame for the stalemate on management's doorstep while adamantly refusing to yield on its demands.

The day when unions can set up management as the big bad bogey man of the labor world is past.

These are the harsh realities of politics and public relations. These are lessons which organized labor can learn only by growing up and squarely facing the unsavory facts.

This is why all labor — the union and the non-union workers in all the 50 states of the Union—must redouble its efforts to preserve the American way of life. That is and should be the first and only goal on this and all future Labor Days.

Letters To The Editor

I have met with a problem; a problem I did not know existed until a few weeks ago.

The problem does not concern me alone, but all the residents of this city. I'm talking of the incredible almost unbelievable confines of the East Liverpool city dog pound. I went down there a few weeks ago to get a dog for my children and what I saw was a pity.

The cages are one on top of the other and about 2-by-2-feet square for large and small dogs alike. There is no water in the immediate building, but it has to be carried there. The dog warden, I'm told, does what he can for these pitiful animals to make them comfortable, but there's limit to what can be done with such facilities. I've also heard there are such people who would have these animals killed. Don't they have a right to live? I couldn't say on paper what I think of such people.

When you consider that we are to blame for this predicament, I think it's up to us to right it. We let our dogs roam free and this brings on the breeding that is instinctive in these animals. Thus we have over-breeding and animals that are hungry and homeless. Then we call the dog warden, who then must do his job. I wish a lot more people would do a lot more thinking and better this life for these poor creatures who are called man's best friend.

Since Nero's Day

Ice cream making has come a long way since Nero tossed his iceman to the lions.

It is only in recent times that the mechanics of freezing ice cream has progressed from hand crank to electricity and electronics. But the treat itself was no novelty during Nero's reign, A.D. 54-68.

Among the Emperor's violent tastes was a quite normal one for frozen desserts. In summer, slaves were kept busy running snow from the nearest white - capped mountains to Rome. Once, when a shipment of snow arrived in a state of slush, Nero peevishly executed the general in charge.

George Washington liked ice cream, too. In the summer of 1790, Washington bought more than $200 worth from a shop in New York, the the federal capital. There were two pewter "ice cream pots" at Mount Vernon.

The pots, known only by mention in a Mount Vernon inventory, probably were similar to those used in the White House during the Madison administration, 1809-17. In those days a container of whipped-cream mix was shaken in a wooden bucket of ice and salt until frozen.

What's Molotov's Secret?

By Bernard Kaplan

West Thinks He May Have Dope On Mr. K.

PARIS

Western authorities would give a great deal to know what Vyacheslav Molotov has on Nikita Khrushchev, his onetime comrade-in-arms.

Official informants in Paris take it for granted that the old Stalin lieutenant and ex-foreign minister was shifted from his post as Soviet envoy to Outer Mongolia because he was encouraging Chinese aspirations in that remote but increasingly sensitive region.

Diplomats with wide experience in Soviet affairs find this less intriguing or surprising than the fact that Khrushchev should have once again found another job for his aging foe who now has been at least twice guilty of conspiring agains thim.

Molotov's new appointment as Soviet representative to the International Atomic Energy Agency in Vienna is not regarded as significant in itself.

The Russians do not look upon such international bodies as of much importance and the post is probably rated a harmless sinecure for the 70-year-old former politburo figure.

THE KEY POINT is, however, that of all the major rivals and opponents whom Khrushchev has toppled on his march to single leadership, Molotov alone has been compensated with jobs of even titular importance. Molotov alone has been assigned to posts abroad.

Western officials are increasingly convinced that the marked difference in treatment accorded him compared to Malenkov, Kaganovitch, Bulganin and other top "anti-party" men cannot be accidental.

Though Molotov is known to have been in some respects a more bitter and uncompromising foe of Khrushchev than any of the rest, he was treated more gently than the other fallen titans.

This is unlikely to be the result of his past or present popularity among the Soviet people, western experts think.

Nor can it be readily ascribed to his potential strength as a rallying point for the neo-Stalinists whom Khrushchev evidently has not succeeded in rendering wholly powerless.

Molotov is the best-known of the deposed leaders to most foreigners. But never, either before or after Stalin's day, was he the most consequential.

Both Malenkov and Kaganovitch for many years took precedence over him in the Soviet hierarchy.

If it is Russian public opinion which worries Khrushchev, Malenkov was far more popular than the grim old foreign minister.

YET MALENKOV and Kaganovitch, whose protege Khrushchev once was, were relegated to the most obscure and humiliating posts while Molotov—his hatred of the present Soviet leader unabated—goes from embassy to embassy enjoying the rank and privileges of an ambassador.

Western authorities reason that the difference is a personal one. Molotov, his unrivaled length of service at the highest levels of Soviet and Communist party administration, might quite easily be in possession of information others do not have.

All during Khrushchev's rigorous 30-year climb to power, Molotov had ready access to the most secret dossiers.

In other words, experienced informants regard it as a highly reasonable guess that he "has something" on the Soviet Premier; something which is damaging enough to keep Molotov from being utterly disgraced despite his unceasing opposition to Khrushchev's policies and something which makes the latter prefer to keep him out of Russia, perhaps as long as he lives.

Experts agree that Khrushchev's past is a murky one. There are unfilled gaps of which little or nothing is known. It could be that Molotov is capable of filling in at least one of them.

First Road In Offing

By Henry Bradsher

It's a 5½-day mule ride from the brand new Bhutanese town of Phunchholing on the edge of the Indian plains to Paro, the main center of mountainous western Bhutan.

But by next May, if all goes well, it will be an eight-hour jeep ride.

And Bhutan, after centuries of voluntary isolation in the eastern Himalayas, will never be the same once its first road is completed.

A lot of landslides, leech bites and sweat lie on the 120 miles between Phunchholing and Paro before the road is finished. But the Bhutanese are determined that it will be built. India is helping.

THE DECISION to build the road came as an abrupt about-face from Bhutan's past policy of keeping the world out and refusing to have anything better than mule trails.

In the late 18th and 19th centuries the British in India wanted to trade with Tibet through Paro. The Bhutanese, content to earn what little profit there was on sporadic through trade, wanted none of a British road.

Since 1947 independent India has urged Bhutan to permit roads. In February, 1959, Bhutan put off another such suggestion. The next month the Chinese Communists crushed the Tibetan uprising and the Bhutanese had second thoughts.

The easiest route from Paro to India had been westward across the Chumbi Valley of southern Tibet to roads in Sikkim, an Indian protectorate.

The Chinese began interfering with Bhutanese government messengers. Rather than accept worthless Chinese paper money and expose her people to Communist indoctronation, Bhutan halted her Tibetan trade.

BETTER communications with India became a necessity. With the Druk Gyalpo (King) Jigme Dorji Wangchuk personally behind it, the Tsongdu or National Assembly decided last October to accept Indian offers to help build a road.

The predominately farm population hopes a road will permit economic transportation of its surplus grain to Indian markets. The few imports needed by Bhutan's primitive and almost self-sufficient economy, such as matches and soap, will cost less.

The people seem unconcerned about possible social effects of cheap transportation. For instance, imported machine - made cloth might disrupt the system of home weaving that provides all Bhutan's clothes and vital income for many farm wives.

What does concern the people is providing labor for the road. Bhutan is a prosperous country in which almost everyone owns his land. There is no pool of surplus labor. The Bhutanese do not want to import labor into their closed society.

OVERTONES of the ancient system of forced labor for the government exist in the arrangements for road workers. Each family or unit of six persons is ordered to provide one worker for 23 days on the road. If no replacement shows up, he keeps working another 23 days.

"How can they refuse to work?" a Bhutanese government official asked. "They are working for their own government."

The road workers live in temporary bamboo huts they build themselves. The government pays them two rupees (42 cents) a day while actually on the job and sells them food at subsidized rates.

The road is engineered and supervised by experts from India, which made a grant of 150,000,000 rupees (31,500,000) to Bhutan for it. The Principal Engineering Officer, Om Prakash Mathur, who has built other tough Himalayan roads, has about 40 Indians under him.

Work began Jan. 13 with about 3,000 laborers. They had built 13½ miles of road by the end of May when they went home to reap their winter wheat and plant summer rice. Work will resume in October.

The road will be only 12 feet wide and gravelled at first. Widening to 18 feet and hard-surfacing will come sometime later. Two major bridges probably will be built of logs until steel ones can be erected.

The main objective now is to open up the country in a hurry.

Bhutan will not be wide open, however. The king says the traditional ban on all foreigners will be relaxed only slightly even though the decline of mule travel might lure more people to this beautiful mountain land.

Battle Of Bogs

Muskegs, the treacherous peat bogs of North America, may some day prove a bonanza instead of a bane.

Though sphagnum moss has long delighted gardeners, muskegs are detested as black, fly-breeding oozes of water and decomposing vegetation that seem to spread like cancers across great areas of Canada and the northern United States.

Muskegs are the despair of road builders. The bogs swallow thousands of tons of gravel, then yawn for more. Speaking from bitter experience, an engineer declared that "the problems of road building through muskeg are numerous, the worries are endless, and the costs are dumfounding."

An aluminum company spent $2,000,000 blasting a channel through solid rock rather than fight a muskeg.

After Long Struggle

Indian Red China Backers Win Party's Divided Lead

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The faction that believes Red China is always right has won the upper hand in the Indian Communist party's divided leadership.

After a long struggle with more moderate and nationalistic elements, the extremists now speak in the party's name, siding with Peiping in the bitter dispute with India over the Himalayan border.

This fact has provoked angry outbursts by Prime Minister Nehru, who told Parliament last week the Indian Communists carry on "a blatant, pernicious and false propaganda campaign meant to defame the position of India."

Nehru says the Communists have "so lost their roots in this country as to be unable even to see the truth. They have twisted their minds so much they cannot see straight."

Tensions within the Indian Communist party are obscure because of party secrecy, but a meeting of the party secretariat recently is believed to have shifted leadership from the moderates to the extremists.

When China suppressed the Tibetan uprising in March 1959 and then in August clashed with India on the border, the Indian Communists were faced with a problem. In theory, a Communist country could do no wrong and must be supported by other Communists. But Communist moderates counseled caution because of angry Indian public reaction to both events.

The Indian Communists have long been divided on basic political strategy. Some believe in a tough policy of opposition to the government on all fronts and a resort to force if necessary. Others believe in following constitutional routes to power, confident that internal factors will lead India to communism.

Facing the China problem, the tough faction supported Peiping. This group is centered in Calcutta, India's largest city and a hotbed of Communst extremism. It is led by B. T. Ranadive, long editor of the party's official newspaper; Bhupesh Gupta, party leader in the upper house of Parliament; and Jyoti Basu, Communist leader in the West Bengal State Assembly in Calcutta.

The moderates supported Nehru's policy of denying Chinese border claims. Some even agreed with Nehru that China had committed aggression. Moderate leaders are S. A. Dange, leader of the opposition in the lower house of Parliament, and Secretary General Ajoy Ghosh. Both have been out of action due to illness recently.

BRT Strikes Railway Firm In Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen Sunday went on strike against the fifth subsidiary railroad of the U.S. Steel Corp.—The Newburgh and South Shore Railway in Cleveland.

The BRT Saturday struck the Lake Terminal Railroad of Lorain, Ohio; The McKeesport Connecting Railroad of McKeesport, Pa., and the Southern Railroad of Donora, Pa. It walked out on the Union Railroad of Pittsburgh last Friday.

The railroads serve U.S. Steel plants in their respective areas, hauling raw materials and other supplies to and from the plants.

Negotiators broke off bargaining talks in Pittsburgh Saturday night with a report of no progress in their attempts to settle the dispute. Negotiations are to be resumed Tuesday.

The BRT is seeking contracts equal in worth to the settlement reached with the basic steel industry last January. That pact called for an estimated package increase of 38 cents an hour. Pay scales for the railroad workers were not announced.

The walkout here idled some 250 to 300 steelworkers at the American Steel and Wire Division Plant in Cleveland, which is served by the Newburgh and South Shore Railway. The process of shutting down the plant was started Saturday in preparation for the walkout. The BRT posted pickets at the plant shortly after the strike began this morning.

3,000 Yanks Pay Honor To Shell Victims

GRAFENWOEHR, Germany, (AP) — Three thousand American soldiers paid tribute Sunday at a simple memorial service to 16 comrades, victims of an army training accident Friday.

In a field overlooking the scene of the accident in this north Bavarian training area near the Iron Curtain border of Communist Czechoslovakia, troopers of the 3rd Armored Division assembled in a hollow—with 16 gaps in the ranks — before an altar erected between two fir trees.

They heard a chaplain, Capt. Merrill O. Challman of Moline, Ill., urge them "to go on as an even more successful part of the team which most assuredly protects our loved ones and all that we value so much in the free way of life."

Sixteen steel helmets arrayed on tables near the altar bore mute testimony to the accident which killed 15 men outright and wounded 27 when an overcharged eight-inch howitzer shell overshot an artillery range and landed in a tent camp. One of the two seriously injured troopers died Saturday.

Cincinnati University Sees Big Enrollment

CINCINNATI (AP)—The University of Cincinnati starts registrations next Saturday with expectations of one of the largest enrollments since the GI-Bill students after World War II.

The university this fall plans to open its new junior college, a two-year unit.

Other new programs include a three-year unit aimed to prepare students for college teaching and an urban studies program for students interested in public service work.

Polio-Free August

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) —Czechoslovakia enjoyed its first polio-free August in 30 years in 1960, the official Czech news agency Ceteka reports. Sabin live-virus vaccine, given to more than three million children last spring, was credited for the clean slate. The agency said that in previous Augusts—Czechoslovakia's peak polio month—93 cases were reported in 1956, 168 in 1957, 41 in 1958 and 43 in 1959.

Indian Red China Backers Win Party's Divided Lead

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The faction that believes Red China is always right has won the upper hand in the Indian Communist party's divided leadership.

After a long struggle with more moderate and nationalistic elements, the extremists now speak in the party's name, siding with Peiping in the bitter dispute with India over the Himalayan border.

This fact has provoked angry outbursts by Prime Minister Nehru, who told Parliament last week the Indian Communists carry on "a blatant, pernicious and false propaganda campaign meant to defame the position of India."

Nehru says the Communists have "so lost their roots in this country as to be unable even to see the truth. They have twisted their minds so much they cannot see straight."

Tensions within the Indian Communist party are obscure because of party secrecy, but a meeting of the party secretariat recently is believed to have shifted leadership from the moderates to the extremists.

When China suppressed the Tibetan uprising in March 1959 and then in August clashed with India on the border, the Indian Communists were faced with a problem. In theory, a Communist country could do no wrong and must be supported by other Communists. But Communist moderates counseled caution because of angry Indian public reaction to both events.

The Indian Communists have long been divided on basic political strategy. Some believe in a tough policy of opposition to the government on all fronts and a resort to force if necessary. Others believe in following constitutional routes to power, confident that internal factors will lead India to communism.

Facing the China problem, the tough faction supported Peiping. This group is centered in Calcutta, India's largest city and a hotbed of Communst extremism. It is led by B. T. Ranadive, long editor of the party's official newspaper; Bhupesh Gupta, party leader in the upper house of Parliament; and Jyoti Basu, Communist leader in the West Bengal State Assembly in Calcutta.

The moderates supported Nehru's policy of denying Chinese border claims. Some even agreed with Nehru that China had committed aggression. Moderate leaders are S. A. Dange, leader of the opposition in the lower house of Parliament, and Secretary General Ajoy Ghosh. Both have been out of action due to illness recently.

BRT Strikes Railway Firm In Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen Sunday went on strike against the fifth subsidiary railroad of the U.S. Steel Corp.—The Newburgh and South Shore Railway in Cleveland.

The BRT Saturday struck the Lake Terminal Railroad of Lorain, Ohio; The McKeesport Connecting Railroad of McKeesport, Pa., and the Southern Railroad of Donora, Pa. It walked out on the Union Railroad of Pittsburgh last Friday.

The railroads serve U.S. Steel plants in their respective areas, hauling raw materials and other supplies to and from the plants.

Negotiators broke off bargaining talks in Pittsburgh Saturday night with a report of no progress in their attempts to settle the dispute. Negotiations are to be resumed Tuesday.

The BRT is seeking contracts equal in worth to the settlement reached with the basic steel industry last January. That pact called for an estimated package increase of 38 cents an hour. Pay scales for the railroad workers were not announced.

The walkout here idled some 250 to 300 steelworkers at the American Steel and Wire Division Plant in Cleveland, which is served by the Newburgh and South Shore Railway. The process of shutting down the plant was started Saturday in preparation for the walkout. The BRT posted pickets at the plant shortly after the strike began this morning.

3,000 Yanks Pay Honor To Shell Victims

GRAFENWOEHR, Germany, (AP) — Three thousand American soldiers paid tribute Sunday at a simple memorial service to 16 comrades, victims of an army training accident Friday.

In a field overlooking the scene of the accident in this north Bavarian training area near the Iron Curtain border of Communist Czechoslovakia, troopers of the 3rd Armored Division assembled in a hollow—with 16 gaps in the ranks — before an altar erected between two fir trees.

They heard a chaplain, Capt. Merrill O. Challman of Moline, Ill., urge them "to go on as an even more successful part of the team which most assuredly protects our loved ones and all that we value so much in the free way of life."

Sixteen steel helmets arrayed on tables near the altar bore mute testimony to the accident which killed 15 men outright and wounded 27 when an overcharged eight-inch howitzer shell overshot an artillery range and landed in a tent camp. One of the two seriously injured troopers died Saturday.

Other new programs include a three-year unit aimed to prepare students for college teaching and an urban studies program for students interested in public service work.

Joyce Betteridge Becomes Bride Of Thomas B. Miller

Wearing her mother's wedding ring, Miss Joyce L. Betteridge became the bride of Thomas B. Miller at 6:30 o'clock the evening of Aug. 20—the 32nd wedding anniversary of her parents—in the First United Presbyterian Church.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Flave Betteridge, 803 John St., and her husband is the son of Mrs. Villa Kuk of LaPorte, Ind., and Thomas W. Miller, 225 Carolina Ave., Chester.

The Rev. A. K. Davison, pastor, officiated for the double-ring ceremony. The altar was banked with ferns, palms, candelabra and vases of stephanotis. White satin bows marked the family pews.

Mrs. Bernadine Cunningham, church organist, presented a half hour of wedding music. Mrs. Janet Smith of Chester sang "O, Promise Me" and "Whither Thou Goest."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace and tulle. The fitted bodice featured a Sabrina neckline, re-embroidered in iridescent sequins and long, pointed sleeves. Tiers of lace and tulle formed the bouffant skirt.

Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was attached to a sequin embroidered princess crown. She wore pearl earrings, gift of the bridegroom. Observing the traditions, her blue garter was the gift of Miss Marilyn Wolf and the sixpence in her shoe was sent from England by Mrs. Doreen Carter. She carried a white Bible, another gift of the bridegroom. It was topped with an arrangement of white orchids, stephanotis and fern.

Miss Wolf as maid of honor was attired in a beauty rose, nylon chiffon-over-taffeta gown. The bouffant skirt was street-length. She carried a cascade bouquet of blue and white carnations.

Miss Doris Christen and Mrs. Shirley Wilson were bridesmaids. Their gowns of turqouise were fashioned identically to that of the maid of honor. They carried cascade bouquets of rose carnations.

All the attendants wore double-tier pearl crowns holding matching theater veils, along with matching mitts and shoes. Their gifts from the bride were pearl earrings and they also wore drop opalette necklaces.

Virginia Mae Betteridge, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a white nylon-over-rose taffeta dress and a headpiece of rosebuds holding a short veil. Her heart-shaped locket was the gift of the bride. She carried a white basket filled with pink rosebuds.

John McKenzie served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Carl Covert of Chester and William White of LaPorte. They received initialed sterling silver key chains from the bridegoom.

MRS. T. B. MILLER

The mother of the bride wore a blue lace sheath with black and white accessories. The bridegroom's mother chose a beige crystallette sheath with dark brown accessories. Mrs. Thomas W. Miller was attired in a dark blue flowered silk with white accessories. White orchid corsages complemented their attire.

A reception for 300 followed in the social rooms. Mrs. William Ogilvie, teacher, supervised, assisted by members of the Post-Hi Class, of which the bride was a member.

A five-tier cake, on which were assembled an entire bridal party, centered the buffet table covered with a silver tulle-over-white linen cloth. Bouquets of white gladioli, silver bows and lighted tapers completed the setting.

Aides were Misses Ruth Ann Coleman, Nancy Coleman, Elizabeth Davison, Ann Cooper, Pauline Smiley and Mrs. Karen Smith.

Other out-of-town guests were from Gary, Ind., and East Palestine.

For her honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls, the bride wore a beige and white checked three-piece suit with dark brown accessories and her bridal orchids.

The bride is a graduate of East Liverpool High School and is a receptionist at the Smith & Phillips Co. Her husband was graduated from LaPorte High Schoool and attended Arizona State University and West Virginia University. He is an electrician with the Crucible Steel Co. of Midland.

How Much Do You Know About MORTUARY SERVICES?
★ PROCEDURES, COSTS?
★ YOUR RESPONSIBILITIES?
There are good reasons why everyone should be familiar with mortuary details and customs.
For one thing, you never know when you might have to act for the family or help friends with a funeral arrangement. For another, you never know what special conditions you might have to face. An accident, or a death far from home—perhaps overseas—frequently poses some knotty problems. Still a third good reason lies in the fact that some pre-knowledge greatly reduces your mental stress in a difficult period—and most important—helps you to guard against overspending.
We have the answers to the problems you'll face, and we've put them all in a handy little pocket-size booklet for you.

Joyce Betteridge Becomes Bride Of Thomas B. Miller

Wearing her mother's wedding ring, Miss Joyce L. Betteridge became the bride of Thomas B. Miller at 6:30 o'clock the evening of Aug. 20—the 32nd wedding anniversary of her parents—in the First United Presbyterian Church.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Flave Betteridge, 803 John St., and her husband is the son of Mrs. Villa Kuk of LaPorte, Ind., and Thomas W. Miller, 225 Carolina Ave., Chester.

The Rev. A. K. Davison, pastor, officiated for the double-ring ceremony. The altar was banked with ferns, palms, candelabra and vases of stephanotis. White satin bows marked the family pews.

Mrs. Bernadine Cunningham, church organist, presented a half hour of wedding music. Mrs. Janet Smith of Chester sang "O, Promise Me" and "Whither Thou Goest."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace and tulle. The fitted bodice featured a Sabrina neckline, re-embroidered in iridescent sequins and long, pointed sleeves. Tiers of lace and tulle formed the bouffant skirt.

Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was attached to a sequin embroidered princess crown. She wore pearl earrings, gift of the bridegroom. Observing the traditions, her blue garter was the gift of Miss Marilyn Wolf and the sixpence in her shoe was sent from England by Mrs. Doreen Carter. She carried a white Bible, another gift of the bridegroom. It was topped with an arrangement of white orchids, stephanotis and fern.

Miss Wolf as maid of honor was attired in a beauty rose, nylon chiffon-over-taffeta gown. The bouffant skirt was street-length. She carried a cascade bouquet of blue and white carnations.

Miss Doris Christen and Mrs. Shirley Wilson were bridesmaids. Their gowns of turquoise were fashioned identically to that of the maid of honor. They carried cascade bouquets of rose carnations.

All the attendants wore double-tier pearl crowns holding matching theater veils, along with matching mitts and shoes. Their gifts from the bride were pearl earrings and they also wore drop opalette necklaces.

Virginia Mae Betteridge, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a white nylon-over-rose taffeta dress and a headpiece of rosebuds holding a short veil. Her heart-shaped locket was the gift of the bride. She carried a white basket filled with pink rosebuds.

John McKenzie served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Carl Covert of Chester and William White of LaPorte. They received initialed sterling silver key chains from the bridegoom.

MRS. T. B. MILLER

Weds On Parents' Anniversary.

The mother of the bride wore a blue lace sheath with black and white accessories. The bridegroom's mother chose a beige crystallette sheath with dark brown accessories. Mrs. Thomas W. Miller was attired in a dark blue flowered silk with white accessories. White orchid corsages complemented their attire.

A reception for 300 followed in the social rooms. Mrs. William Ogilvie, teacher, supervised, assisted by members of the Post-Hi Class, of which the bride was a member.

A five-tier cake, on which were assembled an entire bridal party, centered the buffet table covered with a silver tulle-over-white linen cloth. Bouquets of white gladioli, silver bows and lighted tapers completed the setting.

Aides were Misses Ruth Ann Coleman, Nancy Coleman, Elizabeth Davison, Ann Cooper, Pauline Smiley and Mrs. Karen Smith.

Other out-of-town guests were from Gary, Ind., and East Palestine.

For her honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls, the bride wore a beige and white checked three-piece suit with dark brown accessories and her bridal orchids.

The bride is a graduate of East Liverpool High School and is a receptionist at the Smith & Phillips Co. Her husband was graduated from LaPorte High Schoool and attended Arizona State University and West Virginia University. He is an electrician with the Crucible Steel Co. of Midland.

They are residing in a newly-furnished apartment at 240 California Ave., Chester.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Miller entertained for the rehearsal party at Hoge's Restaurant.

How Much Do You Know About MORTUARY SERVICES?

★ YOUR RESPONSIBILITIES?

There are good reasons why everyone should be familiar with mortuary details and customs.

For one thing, you never know when you might have to act for the family or help friends with a funeral arrangement. For another, you never know what special conditions you might have to face. An accident, or a death far from home—perhaps overseas—frequently poses some knotty problems. Still a third good reason lies in the fact that some pre-knowledge greatly reduces your mental stress in a difficult period—and most important—helps you to guard against overspending.

We have the answers to the problems you'll face, and we've put them all in a handy little pocket-size booklet for you.

DiSalle Gives Mental Health Building Plan

type, custodial institutions as relics of the past.

A change in the state commitment law of possible victims of mental illness to give the state the right to refuse admission to an individual after tests show the person is not a mental patient "in the accepted sense."

Organization of a program of medical care for mentally ill patients to insure that they get adequate attention for other ailments.

Organization of an advisory council which the department will use. ("The present advisory council of five able men and responsible men has not been consulted as much as it might have been.")

Expansion of the day-and-night hospital program, enabling some persons to take night treatment while continuing to work at daytime jobs.

Expansion of the reception center type of mental hospitals. (The establishment by the state of such facilities "in connection with the operation of general hospitals should not be overlooked.")

Establishment of after-care clinics wherever possible to prevent recurrence of mental illness.

A change in the state law to permit the state to provide drugs such as expensive tranquilizers to discharged patients.

Creation of an Ohio mental health research foundation—similar to the one in New York state—to which the public could contribute its support.

A continuation and encouragement of community mental health clinics. The legislature already has provided funds for the establishment of 44 such clinics with the aim of providing early diagnosis.

Inclusion of mental illness within the coverage provided by hospitalization insurance. ("In Ohio only in Cincinnati and Lima does Blue Cross cover this illness. Even this coverage is severely limited.") A move toward complete elimination of patient labor at state hospital. ("Our program has begun to replace patient labor, which has been largely an exploitation in the past . . .")

DiSalle, who obviously has devoted more concentrated study to the mental health program than any governor in many years, admits in his report:

1. Many of the objectives in his blueprint must be reached gradually.

2. He doesn't know the exact cost, but "the implementation of the objectives outlined in this program will not cost as much as might appear on the surface."

He points out that in 1916 Ohio was spending about 2½ millions a year for the care of mental patients, that it is now about 60 millions and will go much higher as the population increases. He commented:

"If we (now) have 25 overcrowded institutions with a state population of 9,700,000, how many institutions will we need with 13½ million people in Ohio? It is my hope that we can eliminate in great part the need for large capital expenditures by new methods and imaginative programs."

The cost of an all-out program to handle mental illness, DiSalle commented, is high and will continue to be high. But what the program will be depends, he said, a great deal upon what the people of Ohio want.

"Do we want a moving, going, successful, progressive program that will put Ohio in the forefront of the states and which will offer hope to all citizens who have mental disorders?" the governor asked, "or do we want to limp along, doing only those things that are necessary in the hope that somehow, some way, we will bungle through and the end of the world will come, taking everyone with it, eliminating the necessity for facing up to our needs?"

Sizing up progress in the mental health field in the last 18 months, DiSalle asserted in a foreword to his report:

"The Ohio mental health program today is substantially better than it was in January 1959. Patients are receiving better care, its institutions are better maintained, the program is better staffed, the personnel has a deeper feeling of support, morale is better."

Cooperation from hospital superintendents in efforts to improve the program has been good, with few exceptions, DiSalle reported. With regard to the exceptions, the governor reported he had encountered "dragging feet on the part of a few, many of whom had been neglectful in the past and who again began to raise the cry of 'morale destroyer' and associated charges which again was an excuse for doing nothing and not having anything done."

The governor at one point in his report referred to Dr. Robert A. Haines, department director, as "cooperative" and, at another point, commented: "I have found him to be an individual who is eager to produce the best type of program possible but who many times has been thwarted in his desire to improve the program by events, persons and causes of which he had little control."

Klein said Nixon "continues to respond extremely well to pencillin and erythomycin therapy in his infected left knee."

type, custodial institutions as relics of the past.

A change in the state commitment law of possible victims of mental illness to give the state the right to refuse admission to an individual after tests show the person is not a mental patient "in the accepted sense."

Organization of a program of medical care for mentally ill patients to insure that they get adequate attention for other ailments.

Organization of an advisory council which the department will use. ("The present advisory council of five able men and responsible men has not been consulted as much as it might have been.")

Expansion of the day-and-night hospital program, enabling some persons to take night treatment while continuing to work at daytime jobs.

Expansion of the reception center type of mental hospitals. (The establishment by the state of such facilities "in connection with the operation of general hospitals should not be overlooked.")

Establishment of after-care clinics wherever possible to prevent recurrence of mental illness.

A change in the state law to permit the state to provide drugs such as expensive tranquilizers to discharged patients.

Creation of an Ohio mental health research foundation—similar to the one in New York state—to which the public could contribute its support.

A continuation and encouragement of community mental health clinics. The legislature already has provided funds for the establishment of 44 such clinics with the aim of providing early diagnosis.

Inclusion of mental illness within the coverage provided by hospitalization insurance. ("In Ohio only in Cincinnati and Lima does Blue Cross cover this illness. Even this coverage is severely limited.") A move toward complete elimination of patient labor at state hospital. ("Our program has begun to replace patient labor, which has been largely an exploitation in the past . . .")

DiSalle, who obviously has devoted more concentrated study to the mental health program than any governor in many years, admits in his report:

1. Many of the objectives in his blueprint must be reached gradually.

2. He doesn't know the exact cost, but "the implementation of the objectives outlined in this program will not cost as much as might appear on the surface."

He points out that in 1916 Ohio was spending about 2½ millions a year for the care of mental patients, that it is now about 60 millions and will go much higher as the population increases. He commented:

"If we (now) have 25 overcrowded institutions with a state population of 9,700,000, how many institutions will we need with 13½ million people in Ohio? It is my hope that we can eliminate in great part the need for large capital expenditures by new methods and imaginative programs."

The cost of an all-out program to handle mental illness, DiSalle commented, is high and will continue to be high. But what the program will be depends, he said, a great deal upon what the people of Ohio want.

"Do we want a moving, going, successful, progressive program that will put Ohio in the forefront of the states and which will offer hope to all citizens who have mental disorders?" the governor asked, "or do we want to limp along, doing only those things that are necessary in the hope that somehow, some way, we will bungle through and the end of the world will come, taking everyone with it, eliminating the necessity for facing up to our needs?"

Sizing up progress in the mental health field in the last 18 months, DiSalle asserted in a foreword to his report:

"The Ohio mental health program today is substantially better than it was in January 1959. Patients are receiving better care, its institutions are better maintained, the program is better staffed, the personnel has a deeper feeling of support, morale is better."

Cooperation from hospital superintendents in efforts to improve the program has been good, with few exceptions, DiSalle reported. With regard to the exceptions, the governor reported he had encountered "dragging feet on the part of a few, many of whom had been neglectful in the past and who again began to raise the cry of 'morale destroyer' and associated charges which again was an excuse for doing nothing and not having anything done."

The governor at one point in his report referred to Dr. Robert A. Haines, department director, as "cooperative" and, at another point, commented: "I have found him to be an individual who is eager to produce the best type of program possible but who many times has been thwarted in his desire to improve the program by events, persons and causes of which he had little control."

Nixon Certain He'll Make Up Lost Ground

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon was pictured Sunday as confident that his whirlwind campaigning that is due to start next week will enable him to make up any ground he lost during his hospital stay.

The GOP presidential candidate's press secretary, Herbert G. Klein, in reporting this, said doctors at Walter Reed Army Medical Center are encouraged by the progress Nixon is making. They feel he will be ready to leave the hospital Sept. 11 and hit the campaign trail on scheduled Sept. 12.

Klein said Nixon "continues to respond extremely well to penicillin and erythomycin therapy in his infected left knee."

Both buildings will be of face brick construction with aluminum and glass entrances. Acoustical tile ceilings will be installed throughout. A paved, off-street parking area will be constructed along side of the Post Office property.

Council authorized the erection of the Borough Building on June 1 and Dawson Ridge Farms was notified by the Post Office Department July 12 that its bid to provide postal quarters had been accepted.

The erection of the dual structure is considered the initial step in obtaining a business district for Industry Borough. The land for the buildings and adjoining tracts west were zoned as a commercial area several years ago by the Industry Township Zoning Board.

The U. S. $100,000 bill, which is used only in transactions between the Federal Reserve System and the Treasury Department, carries the portrait of Woodrow Wilson.

Permits Total $26,074

August Building Declines; 24 Projects Authorized

New construction and remodeling estimated to cost $26,074 got under way in East Liverpool in August, a decline of $181,751 from the $247,825 in July "starts" which represented the second highest total of 1960.

Mayor Bert H. Goodballet's office issued 24 permits last month, but most covered comparatively small repair and remodeling projects. The July total was pushed up by erection of 12 new homes, but only one permit for a new home was issued last month.

AT THE same time, the mayor's office issued 13 permits for razing of homes to clear the right-of-way for the California Hollow-West End freeway. In addition, one of the homes in the path of the new four - lane road is scheduled to be moved to a new location.

In some of the new permits, the applicants did not furnish an estimate of the cost, explaining they expected to do the work themselves.

The lone authorization for a new home last month went to Donald Cunningham to erect a story-and-a-half house on Fisher Ave. estimated to cost $10,000.

Other August permits, the persons to whom they were issued, the work authorized and the estimated cost in cases where it was furnished:

Melvin L. Brown, to remodel a porch at 1560 Pennsylvania Ave., $1,200.

W. A. Husted, to repair a porch on a Harvey Ave. Home, $100.

World's Home Fashions Are Displayed In Milan

MILAN, Italy — The urge to peek inside a neighbor's home is a desire that can be fulfilled on a worldwide basis, at the Triennale di Milano international exhibition in Milan.

Rightfully called "the world's most important cultural exhibits," the 1960 Triennale — 12th to be held since 1930 — is build around the theme, "Home And School."

Nations from both sides of the Iron Curtain are showing, by invitation, their outstanding examples of modern decorative and industrial arts and modern architecture, as seen in homes and schools.

With its major space devoted to the home, the Triennale provides a cross-section selection of designs available in the world.

The United States is represented by two individual exhibits: a retrospective display of work by the late Frank Lloyd Wright, located in the main exhibition hall, and a completely furnished home, the "Casa Americana," erected in an adjacent park.

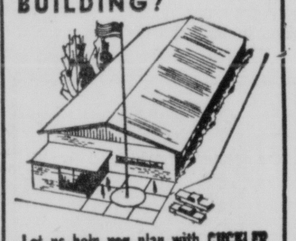

The U. S. home was designed for and built by the Aluminum Company of America.

Although constructed of materials available on the market — a Triennale requirement for all exhibited items — the home explores new concepts of construction in the use of aluminum.

Within the Alcoa home is a collection of equipment, furnishings and craft objects selected by industrial design firm Walter Dorwin Teague Associates as among the best of contemporary designs in these fields. In all, the work of 30 American designers, demonstrated in the products of 27 companies, is represented in the home. In addition, the collection of craft objects includes the work of 16 U. S. craftsmen.

The structure itself includes products chosen as outstanding designs for the home building industry.

August Building Declines; 24 Projects Authorized

New construction and remodeling estimated to cost $26,074 got under way in East Liverpool in August, a decline of $181,751 from the $247,825 in July "starts" which represented the second highest total of 1960.

Mayor Bert H. Goodballet's office issued 24 permits last month, but most covered comparatively small repair and remodeling projects. The July total was pushed up by erection of 12 new homes, but only one permit for a new home was issued last month.

AT THE same time, the mayor's office issued 13 permits for razing of homes to clear the right-of-way for the California Hollow-West End freeway. In addition, one of the homes in the path of the new four - lane road is scheduled to be moved to a new location.

In some of the new permits, the applicants did not furnish an estimate of the cost, explaining they expected to do the work themselves.

The lone authorization for a new home last month went to Donald Cunningham to erect a story-and-a-half house on Fisher Ave. estimated to cost $10,000.

Price Of Land Big Problem, Builders Say

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

If asked the most serious problem faced by home builders, most persons probably would answer: the securing of adequate financing from lending institutions.

The builders themselves have a different reply. They say their biggest problem is acquiring at reasonable prices, land desirably located.

They say there is no actual scarcity of land for the building of houses, but that much of the best-situated property, now lying idle, is priced so high that it is by-passed for sites farther removed from suitable facilities.

As pointed out in House and Home, the housing industry trade publication, countless acres are being held in "cold storage" by land speculators, hoping for still higher prices tomorrow than their land would bring today.

Quoting the consensus of builders, economists, mortgage lenders, realtors and manufacturers questioned in a nationwide survey, the publication feels the only way land price inflation can be prevented is to tax land more heavily.

We discussed this subject the other day with Gerald D. Lloyd, who heads a company that devotes itself exclusively to land acquisition and the development for sales in the form of finished lots to builders.

Lloyd also is chairman of the Planning and Zoning Committee of the Builders Institute of Westchester and Putnam Counties in New York State.

On the question of inflated land prices, Lloyd said:

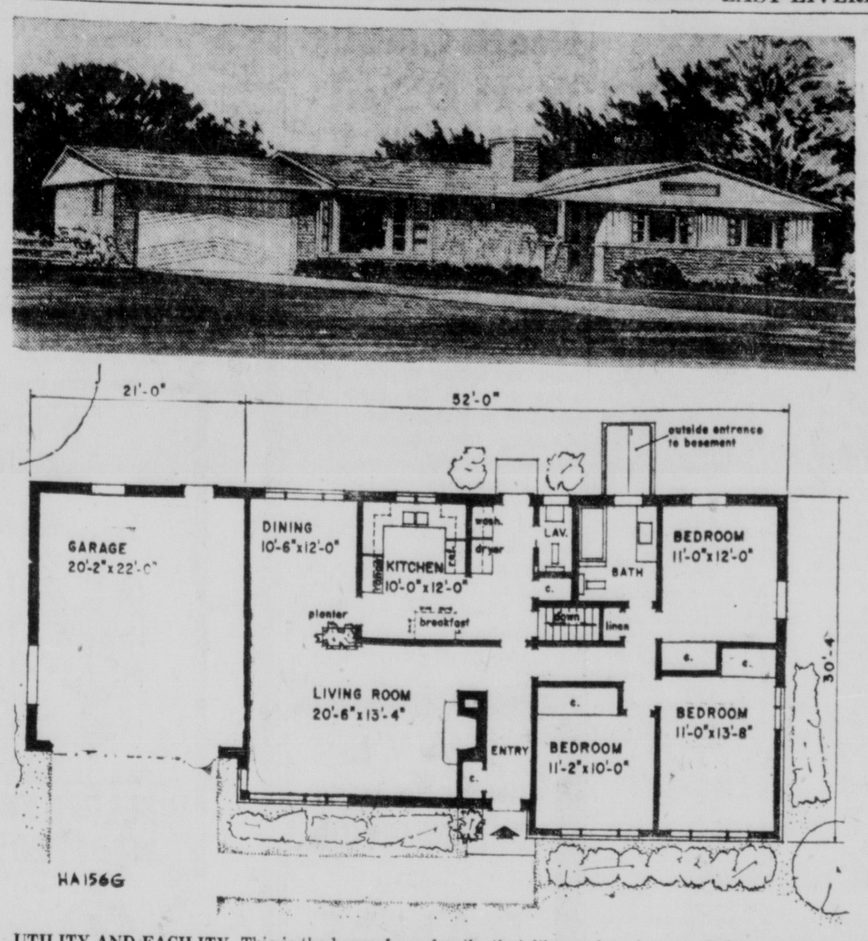

"The inflated land prices are to a very large extent fictitious, in the sense that the asking prices are very seldom the prices at which business is actually done. In our experience, the business is often done at less than half the asking price. Yet the asking price is the one that makes the news."

Lloyd pointed out that, as far as land development is concerned, the builder has had to take over increasingly the functions of the municipalities in providing community facilities.

He said the development cost is infinitely higher as a rule than the land cost, which increases the price of the finished house.

In some cases, Lloyd said, high land values resulted from the willingness of builders to pay unreasonable prices "for the little bit of reasonable zoning that's around."

Whatever the cause of the "land scarcity," whether real or mythical, the suggestion that land should be taxed more heavily is certain to start the fur flying in the next few months.

UTILITY AND FACILITY. This is the house for a family that likes a lot of room. It has 1,498 square feet of living space. The three bedrooms are large with plenty of closet space. The kitchen and dining areas are large, too, and the dining area can easily be converted into a family room. Other features: A utility room adjoining the kitchen in case a full cellar is not desired; a lavatory off the utility room easily accessible to youngsters coming in from play. The architect is Elmer Gylleck, P. O. Box 77, 358 East Chicago St., Elgin, Ill., and the plan is HA156G.

Cheerful Room Helps Youngster With Studies

NEW YORK — Whether your youngster is about to start second grade or sophomore year, he needs a cheerful, comfortable surrounding for study and relaxation.

It would be wise to take a short recess from buying new shoes and school supplies to give your child's bedroom a thorough examination. If the carefree vacation days have taken their toll on walls and furniture, or if the old decor is now too young for the occupant, a coat of quality paint provides the easiest and most economical means of redecorating.

Because it reflects light evenly without glare, flat paint is the best choice for ceiling and walls. For woodwork and trim, which quickly become finger marked, a coat of quality enamel provides a tough, scrub - resistant finish. Enamel also works wonders on scarred furniture. Enameled furniture looks very attractive when used throughout the room, and looks equally handsome when combined with natural finished woods.

Multi-color paint is another ideal finish for a youngster's room, and can be used on both walls and furniture. This cheerful coating produces a random pattern of two or more colors which rates very high with the youngster set. It's a very practical coating, too, for the color flecked design makes dirt marks and small surface marks very inconspicuous.

Whatever your child's age, he should be consulted about the selection of colors. Young children love the very bright reds, yellows and blues. If your kindergarten coed wants red walls, don't be discouraged. Simply suggest a more appropriate red hue, such as rose or soft coral, or a cheerful red and white multi-color finish.

Of course, teenagers, particularly girls, have very definite color preferences. Guide their decisions by stressing the importance which the size and shape of a room plays in choosing the right colors. A small room will look larger when the walls are painted a light color.

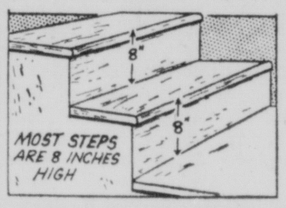

To further the illusion of space, woodwork should be enamelled the same color as the walls. A long, narrow room will look wider when the side walls are painted a light color. To further the illusion of space, woodwork should be enamelled the same color as the walls. A long, narrow room will look wider when the side walls are painted a light color and the two narrow end walls painted a darker shade.

Tips Offered On Building Porch Steps

AP Newsfeatures

Question: In building porch steps, how high should the steps be? The porch is 31 inches high. The steps will be of wood.

Answer: Most steps are about 8 inches high, so you will have no trouble. Make 4 steps, each 7⅞ inches high. The only time you run into difficulty is when the height of the porch is such that you do not come out with steps close to 8 inches — yet not more than 8 inches.

QUESTION: I have seen the term "leakproof" nails. Can you tell me what it means?

Answer: Leakproof nails have rubber or composition washers just under the heads. However, unlike ordinary washers, they are shaped and securely attached to the nails so that no water can get under them.

QUESTION: Can you tell me the difference between select lumber and common lumber?

Answer: Select lumber is usually used when you intend to give it a natural finish. Common lumber is usually used for general utility and construction.

In each category, the lumber is graded. In select lumber, grade A is best, grade B next best, and so on. In common lumber, number one is best, number two next best, and so on. There are more defects and blemishes in woods with higher letters or numbers.

Visits East Germany

BERLIN (AP) — Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, the American woman Communist leader, is visiting Communist East Germany the party daily Neues Deutschland said Sunday. It called her "a great American patriot" and said she had been invited by the Communist party's Central Committee.

FBI Chief Cites Inadequacy Of Nation's Safety Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carnage on the highways during the Labor Day weekend offers stark testimony to the inadequacy of the nation's safety program, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said today.

He decried soft punishments for drunk or reckless drivers and asked why anyone should feel compassion for them.

Hoover said in an article in the FBI law enforcement bulletin that in some states drunk driving is classed as a simple misdemeanor, involving a light penalty and no suspension of the driving privilege.

"It would appear just as logical," he added, "to free a crazed man who had been firing a gun on a crowded street and return his weapon to him.

"Two of the greatest dangers on our roads are the drunken and reckless drivers. Why should anyone feel compassion for them? Their actions show as much disregard for law and order as do the acts of a burglar who follows a carefully laid plan to steal in the night. Also, in many instances, they are a far greater threat to human safety.

"Just as through research and positive action we have isolated and conquered the germs which cause many dread diseases, so can we remove the slaughterers who litter our highways with broken and battred bodies. But it cannot be done by showing pity or offering excuses for those who who wantonly violate the basic rules of traffic safety."

The French village of St. Bertrand-in-the-Pyrenees (population 350) once was the capital of a Roman province and had a population of 60,000.

Carport Plays Major Role In Today's Home

PORTLAND, Ore. — Today's svelt carport is as different from yesteryear's dank garage as the modern house is from a teepee.

The difference is philosophical as much as architectural. In this day and age, the automobile is very much a part of the American way of life and the carport, consequently, has become an integral element of every home.

The result is that the carport is no longer a shanty out back used strictly for sheltering the family's wheels. Today, it receives as much attention from the architect's drawing pencil as any other part of the house.

Often the carport even forms the home's exterior entranceway. This is both logical and practical, for in this motorized age, both family and visitors are more likely to arrive on wheels than on shoe leather.

When the carport is placed at the front of the house and serves as its entrance court, good design becomes even more important. And because the carport is, essentially, an empty cube defined by roof and walls, those walls and roof must bear the decorating load.

This is easier than it may sound. Most architects, for instance, take advantage of the dramatic lines made possible by exposing the carport's structural members.

Usually the roof is supported by glue laminated or sawn beams of giant size and sweeping shape. Sometimes they are finished with clear lacquers that capture the fir's delicate tawny beige coloring and sometimes they are painted a vivid shade like peacock blue or vermillion.

For ceiling treatment, wood decking is often used because it is both handsome and extremely durable when exposed to the elements, as the ceiling in an open carport is. The decking can be either tongue-and-groove fir or a nail-laminated deck build of 2x4s, which serves as the actual roof and is merely exposed on the underside.

Solid walls within the carport are dressed up with sophisticated siding which is brought into the carport from the home's exterior walls. Many siding woods and patterns are fully as beautiful as interior wall paneling, and, in fact, often appear on walls inside the house. Western red cedar, finished with a satin that simulates its rich autumn coloring, is one leading favorite.

With beautiful decor established in a symphony of wood textures and colors, the carport is ready to serve as the home's exterior entrance court.

The only ingredient remaining is a walkway leading to the front door for foot traffic. This path can be routed directly through the carport where walls and roof will protect the visitor from the elements and can be set off decoratively and defined by grillwork screens.

'Hush-Hush' Wedding Set By English Duke

LONDON (AP) — The Duke of Bedford is reported to have set today for his hush - hush wedding date with vivacious French TV producer Nicole Milinair.

Time and place of the wedding have so far been kept secret because the duke, one of the gayer sparks in England's aristocracy, wants to sell exclusive publicity rights to the highest bidder.

The Sunday Pictorial, which is publishing Miss Milinar's story on "My Love for the Duke," said the marriage will take place in London at Caxton Hall register office.

The duke, 43, was divorced by his second wife earlier this year on grounds of adultery with night club hostess Annabelle Lee.

The first residents of the White House in November 1800 were President and Mrs. John Adams.

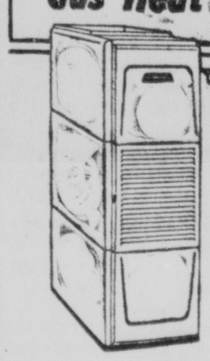

7-Year-Old Ohio Boy Dies Of Car Injuries

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A 7-year-old Crestline boy died Sunday from injuries received in an accident Saturday.

John L. Bower Jr. was brought to Childrens' Hospital here Saturday after he had been struck by a car in Crestline.

The highway patrol quoted witnesses as saying the boy was struck when he ran from behind a parked car. The driver of the car that hit the boy was Max J. Eichelberger, 17, also of Crestline.

Price Of Land Big Problem, Builders Say

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

If asked the most serious problem faced by home builders, most persons probably would answer: the securing of adequate financing from lending institutions.

The builders themselves have a different reply. They say their biggest problem is acquiring at reasonable prices, land desirably located.

They say there is no actual scarcity of land for the building of houses, but that much of the best-situated property, now lying idle, is priced so high that it is by-passed for sites farther removed from suitable facilities.

As pointed out in House and Home, the housing industry trade publication, countless acres are being held in "cold storage" by land speculators, hoping for still higher prices tomorrow than their land would bring today.

Quoting the consensus of builders, economists, mortgage lenders, realtors and manufacturers questioned in a nationwide survey, the publication feels the only way land price inflation can be prevented is to tax land more heavily.

We discussed this subject the other day with Gerald D. Lloyd, who heads a company that devotes itself exclusively to land acquisition and the development for sales in the form of finished lots to builders.

Lloyd also is chairman of the Planning and Zoning Committee of the Builders Institute of Westchester and Putnam Counties in New York State.

On the question of inflated land prices, Lloyd said:

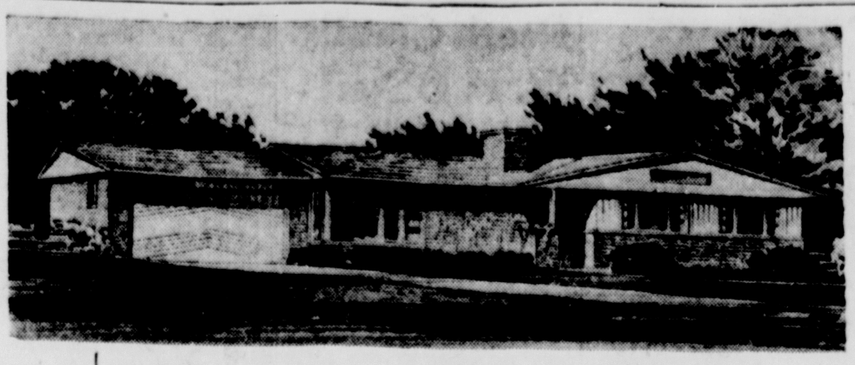

"The inflated land prices are to a very large extent fictitious, in the sense that the asking prices are very seldom the prices at which business is actually done. In our experience, the business is often done at less than half the asking price. Yet the asking price is the one that makes the news."

Lloyd pointed out that, as far as land development is concerned, the builder has had to take over increasingly the functions of the municipalities in providing community facilities.

He said the development cost is infinitely higher as a rule than the land cost, which increases the price of the finished house.

In some cases, Lloyd said, high land values resulted from the willingness of builders to pay unreasonable prices "for the little bit of reasonable zoning that's around."

Whatever the cause of the "land scarcity," whether real or mythical, the suggestion that land should be taxed more heavily is certain to start the fur flying in the next few months.

UTILITY AND FACILITY. This is the house for a family that likes a lot of room. It has 1,498 square feet of living space. The three bedrooms are large with plenty of closet space. The kitchen and dining areas are large, too, and the dining area can easily be converted into a family room. Other features: A utility room adjoining the kitchen in case a full cellar is not desired; a lavatory off the utility room easily accessible to youngsters coming in from play. The architect is Elmer Gylleck, P. O. Box 77, 358 East Chicago St., Elgin, Ill., and the plan is HA156G.

Cheerful Room Helps Youngster With Studies

NEW YORK — Whether your youngster is about to start second grade or sophomore year, he needs a cheerful, comfortable surrounding for study and relaxation.

It would be wise to take a short recess from buying new shoes and school supplies to give your child's bedroom a thorough examination. If the carefree vacation days have taken their toll on walls and furniture, or if the old decor is now too young for the occupant, a coat of quality paint provides the easiest and most economical means of redecorating.

Because it reflects light evenly without glare, flat paint is the best choice for ceiling and walls. For woodwork and trim, which quickly become finger marked, a coat of quality enamel provides a tough, scrub - resistant finish. Enamel also works wonders on scarred furniture. Enameled furniture looks very attractive when used throughout the room, and looks equally handsome when combined with natural finished woods.

Multi-color paint is another ideal finish for a youngster's room, and can be used on both walls and furniture. This cheerful coating produces a random pattern of two or more colors which rates very high with the youngster set. It's a very practical coating, too, for the color flecked design makes dirt marks and small surface marks very inconspicuous.

Whatever your child's age, he should be consulted about the selection of colors. Young children love the very bright reds, yellows and blues. If your kindergarten coed wants red walls, don't be discouraged. Simply suggest a more appropriate red hue, such as rose or soft coral, or a cheerful red and white multi-color finish.

Of course, teenagers, particularly girls, have very definite color preferences. Guide their decisions by stressing the importance which the size and shape of a room plays in choosing the right colors. A small room will look larger when the walls are painted a light color.

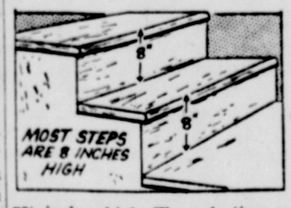

To further the illusion of space, woodwork should be enamelled the same color as the walls. A long, narrow room will look wider when the side walls are painted a light color. To further the illusion of space, woodwork should be enamelled the same color as the walls. A long, narrow room will look wider when the side walls are painted a light color and the two narrow end walls painted a darker shade.

Tips Offered On Building Porch Steps

AP Newsfeatures

Question: In building porch steps, how high should the steps be? The porch is 31 inches high. The steps will be of wood.

Answer: Most steps are about 8 inches high, so you will have no trouble. Make 4 steps, each 7⅞ inches high. The only time you run into difficulty is when the height of the porch is such that you do not come out with steps close to 8 inches — yet not more than 8 inches.

QUESTION: I have seen the term "leakproof" nails. Can you tell me what it means?

Answer: Leakproof nails have rubber or composition washers just under the heads. However, unlike ordinary washers, they are shaped and securely attached to the nails so that no water can get under them.

QUESTION: Can you tell me the difference between select lumber and common lumber?

Answer: Select lumber is usually used when you intend to give it a natural finish. Common lumber is usually used for general utility and construction.

In each category, the lumber is graded. In select lumber, grade A is best, grade B next best, and so on. In common lumber, number one is best, number two next best, and so on. There are more defects and blemishes in woods with higher letters or numbers.

FBI Chief Cites Inadequacy Of Nation's Safety Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carnage on the highways during the Labor Day weekend offers stark testimony to the inadequacy of the nation's safety program, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said today.

He decried soft punishments for drunk or reckless drivers and asked why anyone should feel compassion for them.

Hoover said in an article in the FBI law enforcement bulletin that in some states drunk driving is classed as a simple misdemeanor, involving a light penalty and no suspension of the driving privilege.

"It would appear just as logical," he added, "to free a crazed man who had been firing a gun on a crowded street and return his weapon to him.

"Two of the greatest dangers on our roads are the drunken and reckless drivers. Why should anyone feel compassion for them? Their actions show as much disregard for law and order as do the acts of a burglar who follows a carefully laid plan to steal in the night. Also, in many instances, they are a far greater threat to human safety.

"Just as through research and positive action we have isolated and conquered the germs which cause many dread diseases, so can we remove the slaughterers who litter our highways with broken and battred bodies. But it cannot be done by showing pity or offering excuses for those who who wantonly violate the basic rules of traffic safety."

The French village of St. Bertrand-in-the-Pyrenees (population 350) once was the capital of a Roman province and had a population of 60,000.

Carport Plays Major Role In Today's Home

PORTLAND, Ore. — Today's svelt carport is as different from yesteryear's dank garage as the modern house is from a teepee.

The difference is philosophical as much as architectural. In this day and age, the automobile is very much a part of the American way of life and the carport, consequently, has become an integral element of every home.

The result is that the carport is no longer a shanty out back used strictly for sheltering the family's wheels. Today, it receives as much attention from the architect's drawing pencil as any other part of the house.

Often the carport even forms the home's exterior entranceway. This is both logical and practical, for in this motorized age, both family and visitors are more likely to arrive on wheels than on shoe leather.

When the carport is placed at the front of the house and serves as its entrance court, good design becomes even more important. And because the carport is, essentially, an empty cube defined by roof and walls, those walls and roof must bear the decorating load.

This is easier than it may sound. Most architects, for instance, take advantage of the dramatic lines made possible by exposing the carport's structural members.

Usually the roof is supported by glue laminated or sawn beams of giant size and sweeping shape. Sometimes they are finished with clear lacquers that capture the fir's delicate tawny beige coloring and sometimes they are painted a vivid shade like peacock blue or vermillion.

For ceiling treatment, wood decking is often used because it is both handsome and extremely durable when exposed to the elements, as the ceiling in an open carport is. The decking can be either tongue-and-groove fir or a nail-laminated deck build of 2x4s, which serves as the actual roof and is merely exposed on the underside.

Solid walls within the carport are dressed up with sophisticated siding which is brought into the carport from the home's exterior walls. Many siding woods and patterns are fully as beautiful as interior wall paneling, and, in fact, often appear on walls inside the house. Western red cedar, finished with a satin that simulates its rich autumn coloring, is one leading favorite.

With beautiful decor established in a symphony of wood textures and colors, the carport is ready to serve as the home's exterior entrance court.

The only ingredient remaining is a walkway leading to the front door for foot traffic. This path can be routed directly through the carport where walls and roof will protect the visitor from the elements and can be set off decoratively and defined by grillwork screens.

'Hush-Hush' Wedding Set By English Duke

LONDON (AP) — The Duke of Bedford is reported to have set today for his hush - hush wedding date with vivacious French TV producer Nicole Milinair.

Time and place of the wedding have so far been kept secret because the duke, one of the gayer sparks in England's aristocracy, wants to sell exclusive publicity rights to the highest bidder.

The Sunday Pictorial, which is publishing Miss Milinar's story on "My Love for the Duke," said the marriage will take place in London at Caxton Hall register office.

The duke, 43, was divorced by his second wife earlier this year on grounds of adultery with night club hostess Annabelle Lee.

The first residents of the White House in November 1800 were President and Mrs. John Adams.

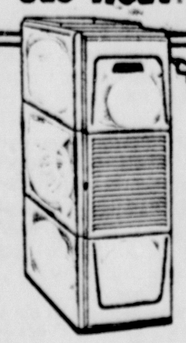

7-Year-Old Ohio Boy Dies Of Car Injuries

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A 7-year-old Crestline boy died Sunday from injuries received in an accident Saturday.

John L. Bower Jr. was brought to Childrens' Hospital here Saturday after he had been struck by a car in Crestline.

The highway patrol quoted witnesses as saying the boy was struck when he ran from behind a parked car. The driver of the car that hit the boy was Max J. Eichelberger, 17, also of Crestline.

Out Of The Air

By JOHN CROSBY

On The Way Up

Now that Martin and Lewis have broken up, now that Abbott and Costello are separated by death, now that Lucy and Desi are separated by divorce, there's a temporary dearth of comedy teams that a young couple named Marty Allen and Steve Rossi are anxious to fill.

John Crosby

Earlier this summer, Allen and Rossi played the Copacabana where the night club critics generally decided they were in the Martin and Lewis tradition — funny, versatile and there are two of them.

Like Martin and Lewis, Rossi sings and plays straight man and Allen carries most of the comedy burden.

THEY'VE BEEN a comedy team for a year now, played most of the big night clubs in America and made a few appearance on television — notably the Perry Como Show.

They both watch television incessantly and most of their comedy is directed at television, especially television commercials. Night clubs always have been the great training ground for television and many, if not most, of the great TV stars came out of night clubs. (Martin and Lewis, Danny Thomas, Jimmy Durante.)

"Television is 10 times easier than a night club," said Rossi. "You've got a format and idiot boards."

Television has another advantage over night clubs, a friend of mine who plays night clubs once told me: On television they can't throw ice cubes at you.

-:-

WHAT DO THEY want to do on television?

"We wouldn't mind doing a show opposite Jack Paar," said Allen, the funny one. (He looks like a dark version of Harpo Marx.)

"We've got an idea for a panel-type show with both of us on a panel, one to be serious, one to inject comedy. We know almost everyone in the business and all we have to do to get guests is to make a phone call."

Rossi interrupted here:

"Going up against Paar doesn't scare us. You can do that sort of thing any night if you don't concentrate on material night after night. All you do is create a situation and conversation takes place. Then you inject comedy.

"We've got songs, dances, everything. We're never at a loss."

Talking to him, you can believe it. They are overpoweringly confident.

"All you have to do," he added, "is relax, be congenial, friendly, and at times controversial."

ALLEN TOOK over: "After all, we played every night club in America without the help of a hit record, television or appearances on Jack Paar's panel."

Said Rossi: "We don't need as many guests as Paar does. I can sing opera, so we don't need an opera star. Marty can dance, so we don't need Gene Kelly. Maybe all he needs is a partner. We're not afraid to go up against anyone in the comedy field."

Would they mind comparison with Martin and Lewis?

Rossi said: "The one thing I like about the comparison is we both feel they're the best in the field and we like to be compared with the best."

Allen said: "People ask me about Martin and Lewis. I just stopped laughing at Laurel and Hardy."

Rossi said: "All these people who say they get a case of nerves before they go on. You get them when you're on,, not before."

-:-

ALLEN WAS doodling on the tablecloth with a pencil. The thought made him grip it harder: "You get butterflies when you're in the middle of an act and the laughs don't come. That's when."

For a moment, their large buoyant egos were submerged with the thought of a whole roomful of people not laughing.

It didn't last long. Said Allen: "we're hip, topical, physically funny. We do pantomime, a topical stuff, satirical stuff. We've got something funny for everyone."

They're a couple of comics on the way up—about an equal mixture of terror and self-confidence.

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Mrs. Walter Loridan, 60, wife of the permanent Belgian representative at the United Nations, fell to her death from the fifth floor of her home here early Sunday police reported. Quantity Food Buying Saves

Quantity food purchases can save the average family a considerable amount of money, especially at this time of year, according to Ed Watkins, market information agent with the Agricultural Extension Service.

Several good examples of these savings will be found in this week's markets. Cantaloupes by the basket are 12 to 20 cents each but cost 25 to 39 individually.

Potatoes are $1.89 for 50 pounds but cost 6 to 8 cents by the pound. Tomatoes are 6 cents per pound by the basket but cost 12 to 19 by the pound. Apples are about 8 cents per pound by the basket and 12 to 15 by the pound. Similar savings can be shown for beets, carrots, cabbage, cucumbers, peaches, squash, green and yellow beans, sweet corn, lima beans, peppers and plums.

Many people have a favorite place where they buy these foods in quantity. Past experience has led them back to a particular farm or orchard, roadside stand, fruit or vegetable market or a particular grower.

Savings on quantity purchases can be quite real, points out Watkins, providing that a great amount of waste does not take place. This waste can come from spoilage, shrinkage in weight, or just plain tiring of the product. In general the root crops keep quite well and could very well be purchased in quantity. This would be particularly true of late potatoes (Katahdin and Russets are good examples), carrots and beets. In addition late cabbage varieties such as Copenhagen or Danish Ballhead and similar varieties can be kept for a considerable length of time.

On the other hand, ripe peaches, sweet corn, many melons, green and yellow beans do not store well and should be used rather soon after purchasing. After making quantity purchases of these products and setting aside all that can be used as fresh produce, the balance could be (1) canned, (2) frozen, (3) pickled, or (4) dried depending on the fruit or vegetable considered.

Hale Haven peaches and Wealthy apples are the two big values in fruit this week. Prices range from $3 to $4 per bushel depending on quality and size. In general, as the size of the containers get smaller the more expensive the product. This is partly because a number of smaller containers usually cost more than one large one, but mostly because it takes more time and labor to pack and handle the smaller size containers.

Other fruits that might be recommended to this week's average buyer are plums, grapes, cantaloupes, bananas and watermelons.

Vegetable buys of the week seem to favor beets, cabbage, cucumbers, tomatoes, squash, sweet corn, onions, lima beans, snap beans and potatoes.

Zhivkov Will Lead Bulgarian U.N. Unit

Communist leaders in Romania, Poland, Hungary, Czechoslovakia and White Russia previously have announced they will join the Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev at the assembly meeting in New York.

Library Now Stocks 325 Films For Coming Program Season

Some 325 16-mm. movies will be available at the Carnegie Public Library during the coming program year. Some 100 of the films are new prints.

The larger portion of these educational movies are secured through membership in the Central Ohio Film Circuit. This year, however, two new sources will provide films regularly.

The Canadian Consulate has placed East Liverpool on its Ohio film service. Four to six films per month will tell of Canadian sporting resources or travelogues with exciting scenery from our neighbor to the North, Miss Frances Jones, librarian, said.

The Ohio Bell Telephone Co. has promised a regular deposit of entertaining features. This month's selection includes "The Juggler and the Stationmaster," "Just Imagine" and "The Taming of Lottie Moon."

A 13-minute color story on "The St. Lawrence Seaway" is available for local audiences during September. A 19-minute filmed trip through "Yosemite Park" would be a reliable entertainment for many groups.

For children's groups, there are "The Ugly Duckling" and three excellent nature prints, "Adventures of a Chipmunk Family," and a 14-minute study of "Reptiles." "The Grass Blade Jungle" and "Animals of the Indian Jungle" are 2 films which could be combined for 22 minutes of fun for scout troops.

"Dave Dwellers of the Old Stone Age" is 18-minute recreation of prehistoric man. This is a 1960 production.

Complete catalogs describing the movies, which the library has for loan are now in stock. A subject index to this catalog will be distributed widely to organizations, schools, and churches this week.

Booking of films will be made by phone if the patron cannot get to the library. Most films are on a 24-hour loan unless groups are situated outside the city. Another service offered by the library is a complete listing of free films through the "Educator's Guide to Free Films." This guide supplies addresses to sporting and safety films often requested by lodges and men's groups.

Other survivors are the widow, Grace; a daughter, Mrs. Grace Regan; three other sons, William M. of Miami, Fla., John J. of New York and Thomas F., vice chairman of General Tire, and two sisters and two brothers.

Out Of The Air

By JOHN CROSBY

On The Way Up

Now that Martin and Lewis have broken up, now that Abbott and Costello are separated by death, now that Lucy and Desi are separated by divorce, there's a temporary dearth of comedy teams that a young couple named Marty Allen and Steve Rossi are anxious to fill.

John Crosby

Earlier this summer, Allen and Rossi played the Copacabana where the night club critics generally decided they were in the Martin and Lewis tradition — funny, versatile and there are two of them.

Like Martin and Lewis, Rossi sings and plays straight man and Allen carries most of the comedy burden.

THEY'VE BEEN a comedy team for a year now, played most of the big night clubs in America and made a few appearance on television — notably the Perry Como Show.

They both watch television incessantly and most of their comedy is directed at television, especially television commercials. Night clubs always have been the great training ground for television and many, if not most, of the great TV stars came out of night clubs. (Martin and Lewis, Danny Thomas, Jimmy Durante.)

"Television is 10 times easier than a night club," said Rossi. "You've got a format and idiot boards."

Television has another advantage over night clubs, a friend of mine who plays night clubs once told me: On television they can't throw ice cubes at you.

-:-

WHAT DO THEY want to do on television?

"We wouldn't mind doing a show opposite Jack Paar," said Allen, the funny one. (He looks like a dark version of Harpo Marx.)

"We've got an idea for a panel-type show with both of us on a panel, one to be serious, one to inject comedy. We know almost everyone in the business and all we have to do to get guests is to make a phone call."

Rossi interrupted here:

"Going up against Paar doesn't scare us. You can do that sort of thing any night if you don't concentrate on material night after night. All you do is create a situation and conversation takes place. Then you inject comedy.

"We've got songs, dances, everything. We're never at a loss."

Talking to him, you can believe it. They are overpoweringly confident.

"All you have to do," he added, "is relax, be congenial, friendly, and at times controversial."

ALLEN TOOK over: "After all, we played every night club in America without the help of a hit record, television or appearances on Jack Paar's panel."

Said Rossi: "We don't need as many guests as Paar does. I can sing opera, so we don't need an opera star. Marty can dance, so we don't need Gene Kelly. Maybe all he needs is a partner. We're not afraid to go up against anyone in the comedy field."

Would they mind comparison with Martin and Lewis?

Rossi said: "The one thing I like about the comparison is we both feel they're the best in the field and we like to be compared with the best."

Allen said: "People ask me about Martin and Lewis. I just stopped laughing at Laurel and Hardy."

Rossi said: "All these people who say they get a case of nerves before they go on. You get them when you're on,, not before."

-:-

ALLEN WAS doodling on the tablecloth with a pencil. The thought made him grip it harder: "You get butterflies when you're in the middle of an act and the laughs don't come. That's when."

For a moment, their large buoyant egos were submerged with the thought of a whole roomful of people not laughing.

It didn't last long. Said Allen: "we're hip, topical, physically funny. We do pantomime, a topical stuff, satirical stuff. We've got something funny for everyone."

They're a couple of comics on the way up—about an equal mixture of terror and self-confidence.

Quantity Food Buying Saves

Quantity food purchases can save the average family a considerable amount of money, especially at this time of year, according to Ed Watkins, market information agent with the Agricultural Extension Service.

Several good examples of these savings will be found in this week's markets. Cantaloupes by the basket are 12 to 20 cents each but cost 25 to 39 individually.

Potatoes are $1.89 for 50 pounds but cost 6 to 8 cents by the pound. Tomatoes are 6 cents per pound by the basket but cost 12 to 19 by the pound. Apples are about 8 cents per pound by the basket and 12 to 15 by the pound. Similar savings can be shown for beets, carrots, cabbage, cucumbers, peaches, squash, green and yellow beans, sweet corn, lima beans, peppers and plums.

Many people have a favorite place where they buy these foods in quantity. Past experience has led them back to a particular farm or orchard, roadside stand, fruit or vegetable market or a particular grower.

Savings on quantity purchases can be quite real, points out Watkins, providing that a great amount of waste does not take place. This waste can come from spoilage, shrinkage in weight, or just plain tiring of the product. In general the root crops keep quite well and could very well be purchased in quantity. This would be particularly true of late potatoes (Katahdin and Russets are good examples), carrots and beets. In addition late cabbage varieties such as Copenhagen or Danish Ballhead and similar varieties can be kept for a considerable length of time.

On the other hand, ripe peaches, sweet corn, many melons, green and yellow beans do not store well and should be used rather soon after purchasing. After making quantity purchases of these products and setting aside all that can be used as fresh produce, the balance could be (1) canned, (2) frozen, (3) pickled, or (4) dried depending on the fruit or vegetable considered.

Hale Haven peaches and Wealthy apples are the two big values in fruit this week. Prices range from $3 to $4 per bushel depending on quality and size. In general, as the size of the containers get smaller the more expensive the product. This is partly because a number of smaller containers usually cost more than one large one, but mostly because it takes more time and labor to pack and handle the smaller size containers.

Other fruits that might be recommended to this week's average buyer are plums, grapes, cantaloupes, bananas and watermelons.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a girl 21 who has a small problem too delicate to discuss with a friend.

The young man I've been dating works in this office. He's 24, attractive, fun to be with and he seems very fond of me.

The first date we had was five weeks ago. We went to a movie. He suggested I meet him inside because he "might be a little late and didn't want me standing on the sidewalk alone."

On the second date we went to the theater. He asked me to pick up the tickets and he'd reimburse me. I got the tickets but he never paid me for them.

Almost every date we have costs me money. He is forever borrowing a dollar for parking, or asking me to pick up a couple of packages of cigarettes for him..

He makes a good salary, lives at home and wears $90 suits. Shall I tell him his behavior in money matters lowers my opinion of him?

He has many wonderful qualities and when I'm with him the world seems rosy and I can hear the birds sing.—FRIEDA.

Dear Frieda: If you listen to those birds carefully, they are probably saying, "Cheap, cheap."

You got off to a poor start when on the first date you agreed to meet him on the free side of the box office.

The next time he puts the bite on you, tell him no thanks.

It's all right for an engaged girl to help out now and then in a pinch but this character is faking you out.

5-Year-Old Tyrant

Dear Ann: We've been married 10 years and have a cute little girl 5 years old. My husband would like another child and has talked to me about it many times. The trouble is our little Janice is against it.

When I ask her if she'd like to have a baby brother or sister she stamps her foot and says, "No, no!"

I'm afraid if we do have another child Janice will be a terrible problem, and I might add she's not very easy to handle as it is.

Do you think I'd better leave well enough alone? I need your advice.—TROUBLED MOTHER.

Dear Troubled: It sounds as if Janice has commandeered the driver's seat in your family. Another child is just what is needed to give the little dictator the proper perspective.

Smoke Burns Him Up

Dear Ann: Maybe I'm old-fashioned. Maybe I'm a creature from outer space. And maybe I'm just a nut. But I just can't stand to see my wife smoke.

Some women don't look too bad when they smoke but my wife looks like a common trollop. She talks with a cigarette dangling out of her mouth, the smoke curls up in her eyes and she squints like a gun moll in a B movie.

Once in awhile she smokes filters and lights up the wrong end. For an hour after, the house smells.

Do you feel my wife should quit smoking just because I want her to?—AGINIT.

Dear Aginit: Generally speaking, if an adult woman wants to small up her hair, discolor her teeth, and disregard medical findings which have linked cigarettes to lung cancer, I think she should be able to do so as a matter of independence.

However, when a wife's smoking is a definite irritant to the man she has promised to love, honor and cherish she'd be a fool to continue, it seems to me.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Young Man Gives Self Up, Breaks Jail, Recaptured

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP) — Charles Denning, an unpredictable young man who hitch-hiked nearly all the way across country to surrender on a charge of car theft—and then broke jail—is back in custody.

Denning walked into the Scioto County Jail early Sunday and surrendered to sheriff's deputies.

The 22-year-old Scioto Countian was one of two prisoners who escaped early Saturday after throwing pepper into the eyes of a guard.

The other fugitive, William Bailey, 36, of Columbus, was captured about an hour after the break.

Denning said he spent most of Saturday hid out in a river bottom. He said his conscience got the best of him Saturday night after he visited the home of some relatives.

Bailey was originally jailed on charges of falsifying an auto registration.

Denning surrendered voluntarily several weeks ago on the auto theft charge after hitch - hiking back to Portsmouth from a western state where the car he stole broke down.

Democrats Will Select Campaign Dinner Site

Don R. Gosney, Columbiana County Democratic chairman, has called a meeting of the County Democratic Central and Executive Committees for Wednesday at 8 p. m. at the City Hall in Lisbon.

The committees will decide on a place to hold the campaign dinner slated Saturday, Oct. 15, at which Sen. Estes Kefauver will be the main speaker, along with Rep. Wayne L. Hays of Ohio's 18th District.

Gosney will also distribute campaign supplies to the precinct committemen and name a chairman for the 1960 Dollars-for-Democrats Drive scheduled Sept. 9-19. The purpose of this first fall meeting is to set up plans for an intensive campaign on the precinct level, Gosney said.

Man Hit By Train In Serious Condition

PORT CLINTON, Ohio (AP) — Wally Burke, 36, of Cleveland was reported in serious condition at Magruder Hospital here with injuries suffered early Sunday when hit by a New York Central passenger train at the Sandusky Bay Bridge crossing.

He suffered the loss of his left arm above the elbow and some toes on his right foot and a compound fracture of the left leg.

Burke had been fishing in the Sandusky Bay area.

5 Killed, 22 Wounded

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — Five persons were killed and 22 wounded Saturday night when nationalist terrorists attacked customers in a cafe here and another at Affreville. At Affreville, a terrorist tossed a grenade into a cafe while a companion swept it with machine gun fire. Five were killed, including two European children.

2 Fishermen Drowned When Boat Capsizes

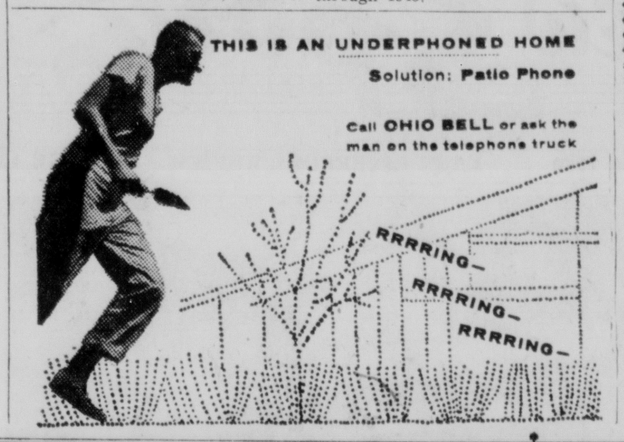

CINCINNATI (AP)—Two fishermen drowned near midnight Saturday after a boat overturned at a private fishing lake in Colerain Twp.

County police identified the dead as Albert Hardest, 78, and Roman Schott, 62, both of Cincinnati.

Edward Bedel of Cincinnati, one of two others in the boat, swam to safety. Other fishermen rescued a companion, Frank Chrizanowski, 44.

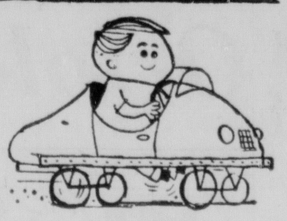

Officers said Bedel was also feared drowned until police found him at home early Sunday. He had become frightened after the mishap, police said, and left the lake without reporting he was safe.

A total of 303,218 airplanes was produced in the United States during World War II years, 1940 through 1945.

1960 District Gridiron Season Gets Underway Friday

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Most Schools To Face Lean Seasons

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

With the "crying towel" more in evidence than usual, the 1960 football campaign will move on stage this week.

Most district coaches are predicting long seasons for their respective teams, and in most cases they may be right.

Over all, it looks to be a rebuilding season, with "green talent" dominating the rosters at most of the schools.

The season will be kicked off Friday with seven games on tap, with five more contests set for Saturday afternoon and night.

Two games grab the spotlight Friday when East Liverpool wades in over its head at Massillon, meeting the 1959 Ohio champions, and at Wellsville Coach Ken Woods' Tigers meet Lisbon in a game that sees Coach Bud Bucher shooting for his 100th victory.

Midland goes to Beaver Falls, while South Side and Chester clash in an opener at Chester City Park.

Stanton Local travels to Hopedale, New Cumberland entertains Northwestern and Akron Hoban plays at Salem.

NEWELL WILL play host to Follansbee St. Anthony in one of five games Saturday. Beaver Local will stage its home opener against Springfield Local and United meets Goshen Union at Hanoverton.

Coach Al Girone sends his first Salineville team against Jackson-Milton at Salineville and Fairfield-Waterford travels to Mineral Ridge.

At New Cumberland, John Kuzio replaced the veteran Charlie Miller. Kuzio had been Miller's assistant for 11 seasons.

And at Salem, Blaine Morton replaced Earl Bruce, who went on to Sandusky.

EAST LIVERPOOL — Coach Lou Venditti, starting his fifth year, feels that lack of depth is the major problem in the Potter camp.

First-line substitutes are scarce and Venditti will have to rely on a fine group of sophomores to back up the veterans.

The Potters lack a fast break away runner, but may compensate with the passing of Kenny Cunningham, who has some top recivers in Tim Archer, Mike Geon, and backs Joe Thompson and John Goodballet.

The schedule is against the Potters again this season, beginning Friday night with Massillon and ending in Nov. 18 against Alliance.

WELLSVILLE — If there are any bright spots in the district this season, it is at Wellsville.

Coach Ken Woods saw eight regulars return for the 1960 season and a group of underclassmen are beginning to develop.

Leading the letter-winners are Dick Brown, shifty halfback, Phil Baldwin, center, Roger Merriman, guard, and Bob Kiggans, end. Wellsville, under Woods, took a step in the right direction last season with a 5-4-1 mark for its first wiinning campaign since 1948.

CHESTER — The Panthers were stripped when graduation took virtually the whole first team.

Amedeo can only hope for an even break during 1960 and rebuild for future campaigns. However, the Chester coach has been down before but managed to come out with more victories than defeats.

Only five letter-winners are back from the 1959 squad which compiled a 9-1 record, tops in the district last season.

NEWELL — Coach Pete Horoszko has the material this season to give Newell a winning club. Eight regulars are back for another crack at the gridiron sport.

The Vikings suffered few losses through graduation and such gridders as Mick Staley, quarterback, Ron Noland, halfback, Tom Woods, halfback, and scrappy Larry Hutton are back to bolster the team.

MIDLAND — John Petchel didn't leave much behind him when he resigned at Midland. Charlie Polce, his successor, only found four lettermen back from last season.

And of the four veterans, two are injured, leaving the Midland mentor with Bob Krizan, senior fullback, and Bob Love, a junior tackle as the only sound veterans working out at the present time.

BEAVER LOCAL — The Beavers are short on bench strength, having a poor turnout of only 29 gridders.

Coach Jack O'Rourke lost 10 senior regulars from last year's squad.

Although there are 14 lettermen on hand, O'Rourke admitted that it doesn't mean much when you have a losing season like the Beavers did in 1959.

—:—

STANTON LOCAL — Reserve strength also is the major problem at Irondale where Coach Fred Sims saw only 21 gridders reporting for practice.

The one bright spot for the Irons is the passing of Bob Mills, who rates as one of the top quarterbacks among the district's small schools.

EAST PALESTINE — The Bulldogs have enough material on hand to go out and defend their 1959 Tri-County campionship successfully.

Coach Howard Weyers in his first season at Palestine led the Bulldogs to a 9-1 record.

Jim Wisser, a fullback, looks like the big gun in the backfield.

The major problem is filling the spots in the center of the line where key performers were lost through graduation.

SOUTH SIDE — Coach Dave Nichol feels he is a year away from a winning season.

Graduation again took its toll, but he is high on quarterback Chuck Schmidt and has three other lettermen back to form a nucleus from which he can build for the 1960 campaign.

NEW CUMBERLAND — Several regulars from last year's team either failed to show up this season or moved away to give Coach John Kuzio problems in his first year as head coach at New Cumberland.

The Raiders have only five seniors, with the remainder of the squad green.

One bright spot is the fact that the backfield from last season is intact again this year.

LISBON — Coach Bud Bucher doesn't expect miracles, but he seems satisfied that his team is sound enough to finish above .500 this season.

Leading a group of eight lettermen are Paul Fry, senior fullback, and a standout lineman in Steve Frew.

—:—

UNITED — The Golden Eagles aren't as big as they were last year, but they will still hold their weight against most of their opponents.

Coach Ray Russell brought United a 5-3 record last season and has eight lettermen back from the 1959 club. The big loss through graduation was Jim Summer, a three-year regular at United.

SALINEVILLE — Al Girone is optimistic about winning in his first season at Salineville.

The Indians have fairly good size, but overall are green with sophomores and juniors dominating the lineup.

Eight lettermen are back from the 1959 season, including four backfield prospects.

—:—

COLUMBIANA — One district school with a wealth of material returning.

Coach George Fisher never has had so much experience on hand, with 12 letter-winners back in the fold.

Losses from the 1959 campaign were few and 1960 should be a banner year at Columbiana.

LEETONIA — Ten lettermen greeted Ike Farrah, Leetonia's new grid mentor.

Fourteen juniors dominate the 32-man squad, which will average close to 175 pounds along the line.

The Bears lost nine players by graduation, but of the 10 lettermen five are backfield candidates.

FAIRFIELD - WATERFORD — Coach Bruce Weber was forced to use sophomores and freshmen last season after injuries took a heavy toll.

With most of the underclassmen gaining valuable experience in 1959, Weber is looking forward to a winning season in 1960.

Russians Say U.S. Runners 'Choked Up'

By JERRY FOOTLICK

ROME (AP) — The Russians say America's trackmen have choked up in the Olympic games.

What's more, they think the United States is in for more disappointment in the climactic Olympic week beginning Monday.

The Russian viewpoint on the stunning reversals suffered by American track and field athletes last week was expressed by Yuriy Litovev, coach of the Soviet hurdlers and once his country's best 400-meter hurdler.

"The greatest danger for any sportsman is to be afraid," Litovev said in an exclusive interview Sunday night.

"The Americans came here expecting to defeat everyone. When they found they could not do it, they became afraid."

Litovev thinks the fear may be contagious enough to infect other American performances.

"They will be watching the rest of us every moment now, and that will hurt them," he said. "if Larry Snyder, the American coach, can make them think only of their own performances, they will be all right. But I do not think he can do that completely."

Litovev said Olympic pressure "made a different man" out of Ray Norton of Oakland, Calif., the top sprinter who finished last in the 100 and 200 meter dashes.

Litovev quickly added that he didn't think Olympic nerves had overcome every American athlete.

He was aglow with admiration when he spoke of Glenn Davis of Columbus, Ohio, who won his second Olympic 400-meter hurdle gold medal in record time.

"Davis is the greatest competitor in the world," the Russian coach said. "He has complete control of his nerves. He knows what he is doing every moment.

"He can think fast enough to change tactics in the middle of the race."

The Soviet coach thinks it was the pressure caused by seeing three Russians jump right with him past the seven-foot mark that caused favored John Thomas of Boston to fail in the high jump.

As for the startling setbacks fufered by world champion Hal Connolly of Santa Monica, Calif., in the hammer throw, neither Litovev nor Russia's head track and field coach, Alexey Korobkoav, could find any explanation.

The Russians who relaxed Sunday at a beach, playing chess, watching television, jitterbugging to American rock and roll music feel they will do better and the United States worse than either had expected in the coming week.

They had planned to launch the campaign Tuesday.

The group also discussed plans for a new building, 26-x-32 feet. Several bids are in with one more due.

Over $200 damage resulted to a canvas of a food stand at the Glenmoor volunteer firemen's carnival Sunday at 5:55 p. m. when water dripped on an electric receptable, causing a wire to short.

Some 10 Glenmoor volunteer firemen responded to the call. A crowd of about 500 attended the carnival Saturday night. It opens 5 p. m. today and closes at midnight.

Wall And Pott Tied At Dallas

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Art Wall and Johnny Pott went into a tie for the lead at 54 holes in the $25,000 Dallas Open Golf Tournament Sunday as host pro Earl Stewart's hopes crumbled with a triple bogey on the tree-lined 15th hole.

Wall, the thin man from Pocona Manor, Pa., shot a 2-under-par 68 over a broiling 6,826-yard Oak Cliff Country Club course to come from four strokes back.

Pott, the tall man from Shreveport, La., had a 1-over-par 71 and had to settle for a deadlock with Wall although he overtook and passed Stewart, the leader at 36 holes with 135.

Wall and Pott each had 207—3 under par for 54 holes.

Stewart wound up with a 73 for 208 and Doug Sanders of Miami Beach, Fla., flubbed a chance to push into a tie for first when he missed a 3-foot putt on the 18th green. Sanders had a 70 for the day.

With Wall and Pott leading the way into the final round Monday, Sanders, Stewart, Bo Wininger of Odessa, Tex., and Tommy Bolt of Crystal River, Fla., were a stroke back at 208.

Tense, Tied Up, U.S. Sprinter Says Of Loss

ROME (AP)—"It was just like the 100," said Ray Norton dejectedly. "I was so tense and tied up I couldn't run."

America's premier sprinter from Oakland, Calif., was at a loss to explain his sudden collapse in the Olympic games.

He finished last in a field of six Saturday in the 200-meter final, won by Livio Berruti of Italy. On Thursday, he also finished last in the 100-meter run, won by Germany's Armin Hary.

"I guess it's because I'm trying too hard. Nothing is wrong with me physically. I feel all right. I'm just tied up like a knot inside," the rangy Negro speedster said.

Seeks Actor Career

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — Olympic gold medal sprinter Armin Hary of Frankfurt is looking for a career as an actor. The runner, now a department store clerk, has signed an option with the West German motion picture firm of Gloria Filmverleih.

The salt content of Great Salt Lake in Utah is about six times that of the ocean.

Opener Set Saturday

Girone Begins First Season At Salineville With 8 Vets

SALINEVILLE — Al Girone returned to his hometown this season to take over as head football coach — his first such venture on the gridiron — and predicted that the new post creates "a challenge" for him.

Girone was not an outstanding athlete himself, but has a fine record in coaching behind him. He left Conotton Valley last season after giving the school three of its top basketball seasons in its history.

His overall record at Conotton was 50 wins against only 19 defeats and his teams gained the district finals twice.

After almost three weeks of practice, Girone, a 1948 graduate of Salineville, sizes up his team as "very green and we do have fair size, but we lack experience."

"In the short time we have been together the team has shown a great deal of interest and desire. The hustle these boys have displayed is very encouraging. Our schedule is tough, but with the interest shown we could surprise a few people," Girone said.

The 1960 squad is being built around eight lettermen. "Our backfield is well fortified with lettermen," Girone pointed out.

The veterans are Ron Dunlap, Ron Giannone, Bud Leatherberry and Nick Richards. However, this quartet is being pushed by boys like Bill Francis, Bill Burns, Eddie Jones, Gilbert Patterson, Joe Feth, Dick Bettis and Ken Dunlap.

Jack Baker, a 180-pound letterman, has been switched from tackle and is competing for an end position along with Paul Kelley, Jim Polen, Richard Baker, Dave Orr and Barry Whitaker.

At tackles, Girone has two lettermen in Jim Rogers and Jaymes Carter. Garry Tolson and Dick Fergason, 185 and 190 pound sophomores respectively, will also see a lot of action at tackle.

One guard spot will be held down by Ronnie Jones, a letterman, with a spirited battle being made by Jack Smith, Dave Cunningham and Ray Mundy. A freshman, John Brown, is also being considered for the position.

George Tepsic and Chuck Manning are vying for the center spot.

Girone replaced Dick Jones as head grid mentor this season. Jones is assisting Girone.

Salineville's opener is only five days away. The Indians will meet Jackson-Milton Saturday at Salineville in the first contest of a nine-game schedule.

The 1960 schedule follows:
Sept. 10 Jackson Milton, home
Sept. 17 Tuscarawas, home
Sept. 23 Springfield, away
Oct. 1 Beaver Local, away
Oct. 8 Stanton Local, home
Oct. 15 Fairfield-Waterford, away

Young Buchholz Advances In National Net Tourney

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—Earl (Dutch) Buchholz, the power-hitter from St. Louis and at 19 the most promising player in the country, and Australia's Rod Laver blasted their way into the third round of the rain-abbreviated National Tennis Championships Sunday.

Buchholz, seeded No. 4, cut down Navy Lieut. Dale Junta of San Leandro, Calif., 6-1, 6-4, 6-0. Laver, who hasn't lost a grass court tournament in the U.S. this year, defeated Miguel Olvera of Mexico, 6-0, 6-2, 6-4. Laver is seeded No. 2 behind defending champion Neale Fraser.

A crowd of about 4,000 braved wet weather and put in an appearance at the West Side Tennis Club.

Before Laver and Olivera took the courts, Christine Truman of England, No. 3 seed, defeated Barbera Benigni of San Francisco 6-2, 6-2.

Most Olympic Teams Take Rest On Sunday

ROME (AP) — Most Olympic athletes took Sunday off for a bit of relaxation, with a few notable exceptions.

The Danish soccer team, itching for a gold medal, was out training. So was the German men's 400-meter relay team, led by sprinter Armin Hary.

Many teams had light workouts.

Woman Drowns

BEAVER — Beaver County Coroner John W. Colavincenzo said Mrs. Rose Emeline Graham, 68, of Fombell R. D. 1 took her own life when she plunged into a 20-foot deep strip mine pond Sunday at 10 a. m. She was apparently despondent over ill health and was scheduled to enter the Cleveland Clinic, Dr. Colavincenzo said. The pond is about 300 yards from her home.

Ohio U. Star Lost To Pros

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio University's 6-foot-6 All - Mid-American Conference center, Howard Jolliff, announced Sunday he has signed a $10,000 no-cut contract with the Los Angeles Lakers of the National Basketball Association.

The no-cut contract means the Lakers, who drafted Jolliff this spring, must keep him on the team for one year regardless of what he does.

Jolliff, of Canton, Ohio, scored 400 points in 25 games this past season and set an Ohio U. rebound record with 456. He was to have gone into his senior year as one of four returning regulars for the Bobcats.

Jolliff was a unanimous choice for the NCAA Mid-East All-Tournament team at Louisville last March. He said he'll probably play as a forward for the Lakers.

U.S. Wins Gold Medal In Olympic Rowing

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP)—The United States got a gold medal in Olympic four-oar rowing Saturday only because four West Coast youths made a vow to win their event.

After having qualified to represent the United States here, the Lake Washington foursome discovered that no quartet of American rowers ever had won the four-without-coxswain title. They swore they would triumph. Saturday they did.

The four — Art Ayrault, Ted Nash, Dick Wailes, and John Sayre—took the lead away from their Russian rivals midway through the 2,000-meter race and held on to win in 6 minutes, 26.6 seconds. Italy sneaked in for second at the finish, shunting the Russians to third.

Spahn Named Loop's Player Of The Month

CINCINNATI (AP) — Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves, nearing another 20-victory pitching season, was announced Saturday as the National League's player-of-the-month for August.

Dave Grote, the league service director, reported the veteran Spahn polled 13 votes from the 40-man selection committee of baseball writers and broadcasters.

Dick Groat of the Pittsburgh Pirates was second with 11 votes and Vernon Law of the Pirates was third with 10.

Investigation Fails To Show High-Living

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

ROME (AP) — The president of the U.S. Olympic Committee said Sunday a preliminary investigation has failed to show any traces of high-living among American athletes in the Olympic games.

"If anything, our failures so far have been a case of the athletes trying too hard instead of falling down on the job," said Kenneth (Tug) Wilson of Chicago.

"Ray Norton lost out in the sprints because he was tense and pressed too much. I think over-anxiety cost John Thomas the high jump. After all, he is only 19.

Wilson said he had asked to meet with managers of the various U.S. teams Monday morning to nail to the mast what he called a "ridiculous" report that U.S. track and field athletes had fallen down in the games because of "wine, women and song." (The report was not carried by The Associated Press.)

"This meeting is not a probe or an inquiry," Wilson said. "I have the utmost confidence in our athletes, coaches and managers. I am meeting with the managers in order to clear up the whole mess."

The Olympic executive, who also serves as commissioner of the Big Ten Athletic Conference, said he had no intention of taking the matter up with his executive committee.

"I already have checked into some of the instances cited, and have found nothing wrong," he said. "If any athletes stayed out too late, they either had been given permission to do so or they already had completed competition.

Last weekend, after Norton's and Thomas' falldowns in events in which the United States expected to win gold medals, an unidentified Olympic official was reported to have blown the whistle on some athletes arriving at their dormitories after midnight.

Norton and Don Bragg, the pole vaulter, were singled out. Both denied the charge.

Bragg acknowledged that he had arrived at the village at 12:45 a.m. on one occasion, after posing for some magazine pictures in downtown Rome.

Pincus Sober of New York, manager of the U.S. track and field team, scoffed at reports of high jinks in the American camp, saying, "I am certain none of them would throw away their big chance so callously."

Red Radio Claims U.S. Fans Irked At Olympic Team

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio said Sunday that the performance of the United States team at the Rome Olympics caused disappointment to American fans.

The broadcast, in the Soviet Home Service, said the Americans did not do as well in the track and field events this time as they did in Melbourne four years ago.

Contending the same held true in the rowing races, the broadcast said:

"On Lake Albano the Americans suffered further unpleasantness. It is enough to say that they won only one gold medal and one bronze medal, whereas their oarsmen won six medals at Melbourne. Lake Albano brought Soviet oarsmen two gold, two silver and one bronze medal."

1960 District Gridiron Season Gets Underway Friday

Most Schools To Face Lean Seasons

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

With the "crying towel" more in evidence than usual, the 1960 football campaign will move on stage this week.

Most district coaches are predicting long seasons for their respective teams, and in most cases they may be right.

Over all, it looks to be a rebuilding season, with "green talent" dominating the rosters at most of the schools.

The season will be kicked off Friday with seven games on tap, with five more contests set for Saturday afternoon and night.

Two games grab the spotlight Friday when East Liverpool wades in over its head at Massillon, meeting the 1959 Ohio champions, and at Wellsville Coach Ken Woods' Tigers meet Lisbon in a game that sees Coach Bud Bucher shooting for his 100th victory.

Midland goes to Beaver Falls, while South Side and Chester clash in an opener at Chester City Park.

Stanton Local travels to Hopedale, New Cumberland entertains Northwestern and Akron Hoban plays at Salem.

—:—

NEWELL WILL play host to Follansbee St. Anthony in one of five games Saturday. Beaver Local will stage its home opener against Springfield Local and United meets Goshen Union at Hanoverton.

Coach Al Girone sends his first Salineville team against Jackson-Milton at Salineville and Fairfield-Waterford travels to Mineral Ridge.

Five coaching changes took place on the local scene since last season.

At New Cumberland, John Kuzio replaced the veteran Charlie Miller. Kuzio had been Miller's assistant for 11 seasons.

Al Girone, a Salineville product, returned to fill the head grid job in his home town. He replaced Dick Jones, who is the head basketball coach and assistant in football.

Ike Farrah stepped into the vacancy left by Pat Mancuso at Leetonia. Mancuso moved to a consolidated school in the Cincinnati area.

And at Salem, Blaine Morton replaced Earl Bruce, who went on to Sandusky.

Moving around the district quickly, the outlook at each school follows.

—:—

EAST LIVERPOOL — Coach Lou Venditti, starting his fifth year, feels that lack of depth is the major problem in the Potter camp.

First-line substitutes are scarce and Venditti will have to rely on a fine group of sophomores to back up the veterans.

The Potters lack a fast break away runner, but may compensate with the passing of Kenny Cunningham, who has some top recivers in Tim Archer, Mike Geon, and backs Joe Thompson and John Goodballet.

The schedule is against the Potters again this season, beginning Friday night with Massillon and ending in Nov. 18 against Alliance.

—:—

WELLSVILLE — If there are any bright spots in the district this season, it is at Wellsville.

Coach Ken Woods saw eight regulars return for the 1960 season and a group of underclassmen are beginning to develop.

Leading the letter-winners are Dick Brown, shifty halfback, Phil Baldwin, center, Roger Merriman, guard, and Bob Kiggans, end. Wellsville, under Woods, took a step in the right direction last season with a 5-4-1 mark for its first wiinning campaign since 1948.

CHESTER — The Panthers were stripped when graduation took virtually the whole first team.

Amedeo can only hope for an even break during 1960 and rebuild for future campaigns. However, the Chester coach has been down before but managed to come out with more victories than defeats.

Only five letter-winners are back from the 1959 squad which compiled a 9-1 record, tops in the district last season.

Girone Begins First Season At Salineville With 8 Vets

SALINEVILLE — Al Girone returned to his hometown this season to take over as head football coach — his first such venture on the gridiron — and predicted that the new post creates "a challenge" for him.

Girone was not an outstanding athlete himself, but has a fine record in coaching behind him. He left Conotton Valley last season after giving the school three of its top basketball seasons in its history.

His overall record at Conotton was 50 wins against only 19 defeats and his teams gained the district finals twice.

After almost three weeks of practice, Girone, a 1948 graduate of Salineville, sizes up his team as "very green and we do have fair size, but we lack experience."

"In the short time we have been together the team has shown a great deal of interest and desire. The hustle these boys have displayed is very encouraging. Our schedule is tough, but with the interest shown we could surprise a few people," Girone said.

The 1960 squad is being built around eight lettermen. "Our backfield is well fortified with lettermen," Girone pointed out.

The veterans are Ron Dunlap, Ron Giannone, Bud Leatherberry and Nick Richards. However, this quartet is being pushed by boys like Bill Francis, Bill Burns, Eddie Jones, Gilbert Patterson, Joe Feth, Dick Bettis and Ken Dunlap.

Jack Baker, a 180-pound letterman, has been switched from tackle and is competing for an end position along with Paul Kelley, Jim Polen, Richard Baker, Dave Orr and Barry Whitaker.

At tackles, Girone has two lettermen in Jim Rogers and Jaymes Carter. Garry Tolson and Dick Fergason, 185 and 190 pound sophomores respectively, will also see a lot of action at tackle.

One guard spot will be held down by Ronnie Jones, a letterman, with a spirited battle being made by Jack Smith, Dave Cunningham and Ray Mundy. A freshman, John Brown, is also being considered for the position.

George Tepsic and Chuck Manning are vying for the center spot.

Girone replaced Dick Jones as head grid mentor this season. Jones is assisting Girone.

Salineville's opener is only five days away. The Indians will meet Jackson-Milton Saturday at Salineville in the first contest of a nine-game schedule.

The 1960 schedule follows:

Sept. 10 Jackson Milton, home
Sept. 17 Tuscarawas, home
Sept. 23 Springfield, away
Oct. 1 Beaver Local, away
Oct. 8 Stanton Local, home
Oct. 15 Fairfield-Waterford, away

Wall And Pott Tied At Dallas

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Art Wall and Johnny Pott went into a tie for the lead at 54 holes in the $25,000 Dallas Open Golf Tournament Sunday as host pro Earl Stewart's hopes crumbled with a triple bogey on the tree-lined 15th hole.

Wall, the thin man from Pocona Manor, Pa., shot a 2-under-par 68 over a broiling 6,826-yard Oak Cliff Country Club course to come from four strokes back.

Pott, the tall man from Shreveport, La., had a 1-over-par 71 and had to settle for a deadlock with Wall although he overtook and passed Stewart, the leader at 36 holes with 135.

Wall and Pott each had 207—3 under par for 54 holes.

Stewart wound up with a 73 for 208 and Doug Sanders of Miami Beach, Fla., flubbed a chance to push into a tie for first when he missed a 3-foot putt on the 18th green. Sanders had a 70 for the day.

With Wall and Pott leading the way into the final round Monday, Sanders, Stewart, Bo Wininger of Odessa, Tex., and Tommy Bolt of Crystal River, Fla., were a stroke back at 208.

Tense, Tied Up, U.S. Sprinter Says Of Loss

ROME (AP)—"It was just like the 100," said Ray Norton dejectedly. "I was so tense and tied up I couldn't run."

America's premier sprinter from Oakland, Calif., was at a loss to explain his sudden collapse in the Olympic games.

He finished last in a field of six Saturday in the 200-meter final, won by Livio Berruti of Italy. On Thursday, he also finished last in the 100-meter run, won by Germany's Armin Hary.

"I guess it's because I'm trying too hard. Nothing is wrong with me physically. I feel all right. I'm just tied up like a knot inside," the rangy Negro speedster said.

Seeks Actor Career

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — Olympic gold medal sprinter Armin Hary of Frankfurt is looking for a career as an actor. The runner, now a department store clerk, has signed an option with the West German motion picture firm of Gloria Filmverleih.

Young Buchholz Advances In National Net Tourney

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—Earl (Dutch) Buchholz, the power-hitter from St. Louis and at 19 the most promising player in the country, and Australia's Rod Laver blasted their way into the third round of the rain-abbreviated National Tennis Championships Sunday.

Buchholz, seeded No. 4, cut down Navy Lieut. Dale Junta of San Leandro, Calif., 6-1, 6-4, 6-0. Laver, who hasn't lost a grass court tournament in the U.S. this year, defeated Miguel Olvera of Mexico, 6-0, 6-2, 6-4. Laver is seeded No. 2 behind defending champion Neale Fraser.

A crowd of about 4,000 braved wet weather and put in an appearance at the West Side Tennis Club.

Before Laver and Olivera took the courts, Christine Truman of England, No. 3 seed, defeated Barbera Benigni of San Francisco 6-2, 6-2.

Most Olympic Teams Take Rest On Sunday

ROME (AP) — Most Olympic athletes took Sunday off for a bit of relaxation, with a few notable exceptions.

The Danish soccer team, itching for a gold medal, was out training. So was the German men's 400-meter relay team, led by sprinter Armin Hary.

Many teams had light workouts.

Woman Drowns

BEAVER — Beaver County Coroner John W. Colavincenzo said Mrs. Rose Emeline Graham, 68, of Fombell R. D. 1 took her own life when she plunged into a 20-foot deep strip mine pond Sunday at 10 a. m. She was apparently despondent over ill health and was scheduled to enter the Cleveland Clinic, Dr. Colavincenzo said. The pond is about 300 yards from her home.

Ohio U. Star Lost To Pros

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio University's 6-foot-6 All - Mid-American Conference center, Howard Jolliff, announced Sunday he has signed a $10,000 no-cut contract with the Los Angeles Lakers of the National Basketball Association.

The no-cut contract means the Lakers, who drafted Jolliff this spring, must keep him on the team for one year regardless of what he does.

Jolliff, of Canton, Ohio, scored 400 points in 25 games this past season and set an Ohio U. rebound record with 456. He was to have gone into his senior year as one of four returning regulars for the Bobcats.

Jolliff was a unanimous choice for the NCAA Mid-East All-Tournament team at Louisville last March. He said he'll probably play as a forward for the Lakers.

U.S. Wins Gold Medal In Olympic Rowing

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP)—The United States got a gold medal in Olympic four-oar rowing Saturday only because four West Coast youths made a vow to win their event.

After having qualified to represent the United States here, the Lake Washington foursome discovered that no quartet of American rowers ever had won the four-without-coxswain title. They swore they would triumph. Saturday they did.

The four — Art Ayrault, Ted Nash, Dick Wailes, and John Sayre—took the lead away from their Russian rivals midway through the 2,000-meter race and held on to win in 6 minutes, 26.6 seconds. Italy sneaked in for second at the finish, shunting the Russians to third.

Spahn Named Loop's Player Of The Month

CINCINNATI (AP) — Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves, nearing another 20-victory pitching season, was announced Saturday as the National League's player-of-the-month for August.

Dave Grote, the league service director, reported the veteran Spahn polled 13 votes from the 40-man selection committee of baseball writers and broadcasters.

Dick Groat of the Pittsburgh Pirates was second with 11 votes and Vernon Law of the Pirates was third with 10.

Investigation Fails To Show High-Living

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

ROME (AP) — The president of the U.S. Olympic Committee said Sunday a preliminary investigation has failed to show any traces of high-living among American athletes in the Olympic games.

"If anything, our failures so far have been a case of the athletes trying too hard instead of falling down on the job," said Kenneth (Tug) Wilson of Chicago.

"Ray Norton lost out in the sprints because he was tense and pressed too much. I think over-anxiety cost John Thomas the high jump. After all, he is only 19.

Wilson said he had asked to meet with managers of the various U.S. teams Monday morning to nail to the mast what he called a "ridiculous" report that U.S. track and field athletes had fallen down in the games because of "wine, women and song." (The report was not carried by The Associated Press.)

"This meeting is not a probe or an inquiry," Wilson said. "I have the utmost confidence in our athletes, coaches and managers. I am meeting with the managers in order to clear up the whole mess."

The Olympic executive, who also serves as commissioner of the Big Ten Athletic Conference, said he had no intention of taking the matter up with his executive committee.

"I already have checked into some of the instances cited, and have found nothing wrong," he said. "If any athletes stayed out too late, they either had been given permission to do so or they already had completed competition.

Last weekend, after Norton's and Thomas' falldowns in events in which the United States expected to win gold medals, an unidentified Olympic official was reported to have blown the whistle on some athletes arriving at their dormitories after midnight.

Norton and Don Bragg, the pole vaulter, were singled out. Both denied the charge.

Bragg acknowledged that he had arrived at the village at 12:45 a.m. on one occasion, after posing for some magazine pictures in downtown Rome.

Pincus Sober of New York, manager of the U.S. track and field team, scoffed at reports of high jinks in the American camp, saying, "I am certain none of them would throw away their big chance so callously."

Red Radio Claims U.S. Fans Irked At Olympic Team

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio said Sunday that the performance of the United States team at the Rome Olympics caused disappointment to American fans.

The broadcast, in the Soviet Home Service, said the Americans did not do as well in the track and field events this time as they did in Melbourne four years ago.

Contending the same held true in the rowing races, the broadcast said:

"On Lake Albano the Americans suffered further unpleasantness. It is enough to say that they won only one gold medal and one bronze medal, whereas their oarsmen won six medals at Melbourne. Lake Albano brought Soviet oarsmen two gold, two silver and one bronze medal."

Weirton Steel Official In Civil Rights Group

WEIRTON — John A. Jones, director of public relations at the Weirton Steel Co. has been appointed to the West Virginia Advisory Committee of the National Commission on Civil Rights. The appointment was announced by Gordon M. Tiffany of Washington, staff director of the commission.

The commission, established in 1957, is a fact-gathering study group to advise President Eisenhower and the Congress of conditions which deprive U. S. citizens of their constitutional rights because of their color, race, religion or national origin. The state advisory committees gather information which the commission requests and also advise the commission in cases involving the denial of equal justice in their states.

Members of the advisory committee in addition to Jones are Miles C. Stanley of Charleston, chairman; Howard V. Corcoran of Wheeling, vice chairman; Mrs. P. R. Higginbotham of Bluefield, secretary; B. Paul Broida of Parkersburg, Miss Helen Z. Goldsborough of Shepherdstown, Mrs. Douglas C. Tomkies of Huntington, James B. McIntyre of Charleston and Dr. William J. L. Weirton Steel Official In Civil Rights Group

WEIRTON — John A. Jones, director of public relations at the Weirton Steel Co. has been appointed to the West Virginia Advisory Committee of the National Commission on Civil Rights. The appointment was announced by Gordon M. Tiffany of Washington, staff director of the commission.

The commission, established in 1957, is a fact-gathering study group to advise President Eisenhower and the Congress of conditions which deprive U. S. citizens of their constitutional rights because of their color, race, religion or national origin. The state advisory committees gather information which the commission requests and also advise the commission in cases involving the denial of equal justice in their states.

Members of the advisory committee in addition to Jones are Miles C. Stanley of Charleston, chairman; Howard V. Corcoran of Wheeling, vice chairman; Mrs. P. R. Higginbotham of Bluefield, secretary; B. Paul Broida of Parkersburg, Miss Helen Z. Goldsborough of Shepherdstown, Mrs. Douglas C. Tomkies of Huntington, James B. McIntyre of Charleston and Dr. William J. L. Wallace of West Virginia State College at Institute.

County Farm Tour Planned

LISBON — George Gist, extension agronomist at Ohio State University, will lead the discussion on the farm tour to be held Thursday at 10 a. m., according to Don Myers, county extension agent in agriculture.

Area farmers will view many interesting items on the tour, including rotation pastures, green chopping, corn and soybeans, fall alfalfa seeding, diary barns and milking systems and conservation and woodland practices, Myers said. The tour schedule includes:

10 a. m., Stop 1, James Rhodes Jr., Salem R. D. 2, rotation pasture, Jersey herd, artificial breeding, dairy herd improvement testing; stop 2, Donovan Win Farm, Salem R. D. 2, remodeled barn, homemade comfort stalls, green chopping, corn and soybeans, oat silage.

11:30 a. m., sack lunch at Winona Park.

12:30 p. m., Stop 3, Oscar Hansen & Son, Salem R. D. 2, farm pond being used for cattle water supply, new milking parlor, new loafing shed; Stop 4, Marion and Olan Sanor, East Rochester R. D. 2, fall seeding of alfalfa, oat pasture, alfalfa and birdsfoot trefoil seeding, improved woodland, milking parlor and pipeling.

2:15 p. m., Stop 5, Leonard Lowmiller, Minerva R. D. 2, certified seed production, high crop yields, contour strips, dairy, swine and beef enterprise and milk dumping station.

Any interested person may attend all or part of the tour, Myers said.

South African Visit By 'Satchmo' Urged

DURBAN, South Africa (AP) — Promoter Michael Klisser said Sunday he is asking South Africa's segregationist government if it will allow American jazz trumpeter Louis Satchmo Armstrong to come here for an engagement in December. Klisser told the Sunday Tribune Armstrong informed him. "Sure, I'll be glad to come. I am an entertainer, not a politician."

Armstrong was reported planning an African tour which would bring him to neighboring Southern Rhodesia Nov. 15. No comment was available from government sources whether the Negro entertainer would be granted a visa for this country.

DOLL-GONE HOBBY. Mrs. Charles Griffith of Gaston Pl. is pictured with a variety of dolls that are being repaired and outfitted with new clothing with the help of a daughter, Miss Bonnie Lou Seaman. When Christmas rolls around, they hope to have 200 dolls repaired for the Salvation Army to give to poor children of the city. The dolls on the chest had broken limbs and tattered clothing before undergoing repairs. Miss Seaman and her mother repaired 178 last year to help make Christmas brighter for unfortunate children. Area residents may aid in the project by donating discarded dolls to the Salvation Army, which will turn them over to Miss Seaman and her mother for necessary repairs. Both consider the project a fascinating hobby. Mrs. Wilbert Walls of Wintersville is aiding.

Jazz Head Fails To Show Up

Dancers Wreck Ballroom, Battle Police In Portland

PORTLAND Ore. (AP) — Nearly 1,000 dancers wrecked a ballroom and battled police Saturday night after the rock 'n' roll man they paid $2.50 a head to hear didn't show up.

Nineteen persons were jailed. Police used night sticks and fire hoses to disperse the crowd.

One officer, Eugene Center, had a bad gash in his left cheek.

Robert Olson, editor of the Enumclaw, Wash., Courier-Herald, said he just had emerged with his wife from a restaurant nearby.

"There were four policemen in front of the place when all these people came rolling out the door and right over them, knocking them down," he said.

Olson saw two girls hurtle out of a window. "It looked as if they were thrown, and they landed on top of a parked car."

Windows in nearby buildings and cars were smashed.

The Ray Charles orchestra had been playing for the dancers. About midnight it was announced that Charles, scheduled to come from Seattle by plane, was grounded and couldn't make it.

Bottles, chairs and other objects pelted Joe Jones, comanager of the Palais Royale Ballroom, who made the announcement.

There was a stampede down the stairs from the second-story ballroom, located on the west fringe of downtown Portland. The mob headed toward the cashier's window for a promised refund.

Patrolman Wayne Lee, one of the first there, said," They jammed up against the double doors like sardines."

Several women fainted and had to be carried out. The crowd smashed the cashier's window.

"They started scooping up the money," Lee said. "They even rifled purses and coats. One woman lost $190 in cash."

Mayor Terry Shrunk hurried over. A police radio dispatcher called for all available cars. He got nearly 20, a county car, two fire trucks and two ambulances.

Shrunk said it was not a race riot but was a racially mixed crowd, about 80 per cent Negro. "It was simply a misunderstanding of the crowd," he asserted.

West Berlin's Mayor Warns Of More Trouble From Reds

By BEORGE BOULTWOOD

BERLIN (AP) — Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin warned Sunday night more trouble is coming for this isolated city from a Communist plot to wear down Western resistence. Brandt said he expects a series of Communist actions spread over several months.

"With a drumfire of chicancery they want to soften up the West psychologically and make them ready for a rotten compromise," Brandt said in a radio speech.

He spoke a few hours before the latest East German restrictions on travel to Berlin ended. The city government said in the five days of the ban Communist border guards had turned back 1,004 would-be travelers to the city, 110 miles behind the Iron Curtain. The city's offer of free air passage to carry hindered travelers over the heads of the Communist blockaders was accepted by 695 persons.

Brandt said Communist harassment of travelers was part of a long-prepared plan to convince the free world Berlin is to be a constant source of unrest.

Proclaiming "total agreement with our Western friends," Brandt said, "We will not remain idle—we will give the answer required by the provocation."

The Communists fired their last shot Sunday at a rally of Germans expelled from Eastern Europe by the conquering Red army 15 years ago. It was a volley of rocket-borne leaflets condemning the participants as "revenge-seekers and militarists." This rally had been used by the Red regime as an excuse for banning West German travel to the city.

Some rockets reproduced claims by deserters from the West German army that West Germany is planning aggressive nuclear war.

ROME (AP)—New Zeland Sunday qualified for the quarterfinals of the Olympic field hockey tournament by beating Holland, 2-1, in a playoff. The score at half time was 1-1.

Participants Urged To Check SS Accounts

A question the Social Security Administration would like to hear asked more often is, "Have my earnings been properly credited to my social security account?"

Most people know something about their rights and benefits under social security but many do not know they have certain obligations, too.

For example, have you checked your social security record in recent years? Do you know whether all your earnings have been correctly credited to your account? If your answer is "No" to these questions, you should take action now.

Social security records should be checked at least once every three years and the sooner a worker checks the easier it is to correct any errors in his earnings record.

Persons interested in a check on their accounts may obtain a postcard form, OAR-7004, Wage Statement Request, from the SS representative at the East Liverpool Post Office on Mondays or Wednesday.

Clevelander Indicted On Narcotics Violation

CLEVELAND (AP) — Yancey Wilson, described by police as Cleveland's biggest heroin dealer who netted $200-$300 a day, has been indicted by the county grand jury on a charge of conspiracy to violate narcotics regulations.

Wilson, 43, was named in 14 counts of the indictment and could receive a prison term of 120 to 310 years if convicted on all counts. Audrey Walker, 27, named with Wilson in the conspiracy charge returned Friday, was indicted on five counts.

A third person, not named, also was indicted for conspiracy and cited on six offenses.

Wilson and Miss Walker were placed in county jail under $20,000 and $15,000 bonds, respecitvely.

Earlier Class At Salineville

SALINEVILLE — Schools will resume Wednesday with a change in afternoon starting and dismissal times.

Classes will begin in the forenoon at the same hour as last term, Thomas Leek, principal, said.

After dismissal at noon, classes will resume at 12:35 p. m., 15 minutes earlier than last year, Leek said. Dismissal will be at 3:35 p. m., 10 minutes earlier.

The bus schedule will remain the same as last term, he said.

Leek said teachers of the 7th through 12th grades will meet at 1 p. m. Tuesday in the high school. Teachers in the 1st to 6th grades will meet at 2 p. m. in the grade school building.

A general meeting of all teachers in the Southern Local district, which includes Salineville, will be held at 9:30 a. m. in the Salineville cafeteria.

82 Prisoners Received At Jail During August

LISBON — Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan reported a total of 82 prisoners were received at the County Jail during August, in addition to 35 already confined as of Aug. 1.

Seventy-six prisoners were released during the month, seven mental patients were taken to state hospitals and 209 visitors registered at the jail.

Some 3,779 meals were served for a total cost of $1,172.95, making the average daily expense per prisoner 93 cents.

Sheriff VanFossan said 250 papers were served and 7,114 radio transmissions were handled, along with 1,399 phone calls at the jail. The sheriff's office in the Courthouse accepted 16 sets of fox feet for bounty during the month and fees totaling $595.82 were collected.

Severely Disabled Vet Entitled To More Aid

Severely disabled veterans may be eligible for an increased rate of compensation as the result of recent action by Congress, according to William Holsinger, manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Cleveland. He said the new law provides a special rate of monthly compensation amounting to $265 for a veteran with a service-connected total disability who also has service-connected disabilities independently ratable at 60 per cent or more or who is housebound permanently because of such disabilities.

The Cleveland VA manager asked that any veterans or their relatives who have such cases in their household and who may have some questions on the proper procedure for consideration of their problem call the VA Contact Officer for an explanation or to initiate their claim.

Cole To Head Kennedy And Johnson Unit

CLEVELAND (AP)—Joseph E. Cole has been approved by national headquarters to become chairman of the Independent Citizens of Kennedy and Johnson Committee in Cuyahoga County.

Cole, president of the National Key Co. and a former member of the county Republican Executive Committee, was picked for his job by Ray T. Miller, county Democratic Chairman. Although Cole is a Republican, most of the others appointed to the "independent" committee are Democratic organization stalwarts.

This move by Miller drew criticism from Gov. Michael V. DiSalle and state democratic headquarters. Doubt was expressed that a committee picked in such fashion could be attractive to independents.

But, Friday Cole received a telegram from Byron R. (Whizzer) White, national chairman of the Citizens' Organization seeking the election of Sen. John F. Kennedy as president and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson as vice president. White approved Key's appointment and the committee's plans.

"Our only aim will be to help roll up the largest possible majority in this county for Kennedy and Johnson," Cole said. The Citizens Group, he said, will work among Republicans, non - organization Democrats and independents who want to contribute services or funds to the Kennedy election.

South African Visit By 'Satchmo' Urged

DURBAN, South Africa (AP) — Promoter Michael Klisser said Sunday he is asking South Africa's segregationist government if it will allow American jazz trumpeter Louis Satchmo Armstrong to come here for an engagement in December. Klisser told the Sunday Tribune Armstrong informed him. "Sure, I'll be glad to come. I am an entertainer, not a politician."

Armstrong was reported planning an African tour which would bring him to neighboring Southern Rhodesia Nov. 15. No comment was available from government sources whether the Negro entertainer would be granted a visa for this country.

DOLL-GONE HOBBY. Mrs. Charles Griffith of Gaston Pl. is pictured with a variety of dolls that are being repaired and outfitted with new clothing with the help of a daughter, Miss Bonnie Lou Seaman. When Christmas rolls around, they hope to have 200 dolls repaired for the Salvation Army to give to poor children of the city. The dolls on the chest had broken limbs and tattered clothing before undergoing repairs. Miss Seaman and her mother repaired 178 last year to help make Christmas brighter for unfortunate children. Area residents may aid in the project by donating discarded dolls to the Salvation Army, which will turn them over to Miss Seaman and her mother for necessary repairs. Both consider the project a fascinating hobby. Mrs. Wilbert Walls of Wintersville is aiding.

Dancers Wreck Ballroom, Battle Police In Portland

PORTLAND Ore. (AP) — Nearly 1,000 dancers wrecked a ballroom and battled police Saturday night after the rock 'n' roll man they paid $2.50 a head to hear didn't show up.

Nineteen persons were jailed. Police used night sticks and fire hoses to disperse the crowd.

Robert Olson, editor of the Enumclaw, Wash., Courier-Herald, said he just had emerged with his wife from a restaurant nearby.

"There were four policemen in front of the place when all these people came rolling out the door and right over them, knocking them down," he said.

Olson saw two girls hurtle out of a window. "It looked as if they were thrown, and they landed on top of a parked car."

Windows in nearby buildings and cars were smashed.

The Ray Charles orchestra had been playing for the dancers. About midnight it was announced that Charles, scheduled to come from Seattle by plane, was grounded and couldn't make it.

Bottles, chairs and other objects pelted Joe Jones, comanager of the Palais Royale Ballroom, who made the announcement.
